THREE FLANDERS IN GEORGIA TOUR

Geo. W. Hanson Enters Three Glidden Cars For Trip.

Mr. Hanson Will Not Even Permit Cars to Be Washed, So They Will Carry the Mud of Ten States Traversed by Gliddenites.

Jacksonville, Fla., October 27.—(Special.)—The list of entries for The Constitution's Round the State Auto Tour was increased today by three Flanders "20" cars, entered by George W. Hanson, manager of the E-M-F Company at Atlanta. The Flanders "20" cars comprise the Detroit team entered in the Glidden tour, and were numbered 53, 54 and 55.

All of them will bear their Glidden numerals on the Round-the-State Tour. As a further illustration of their road ability, Mr. Hanson will not even permit the cars to be washed, so they will each bear on the Georgia trip the mud of the ten states which they traversed in the Glidden tour.

Probably the most famous of the Flanders trio is car 54. This was the pathfinder for the Glidden tour, and carried Pilot Westgard and Paul Hale Bruske on the record-setting road mapping trip. At the conclusion of the trip Mr. Westgard stated that no car could have done the work better, regardless of price or power.

This car was shipped back to New York at the end of the pathfinding trip and was entered as a contestant in the Glidden tour, the Studebaker Corporation abandoning the usual process of donating the car to the tour as a pilot.

In its second trip down the "Dixie Trail" this Flanders "20" again demonstrated its ability by turning in a perfect score at Jacksonville. This car will again be driven by William H. Soules, of Detroit.

Car No. 53, of the Flanders fleet, carried the baggage of the Glidden pathfinding party, and made a perfect score on the pathfinding run, and was penalized but once in the Glidden itself, this being when a heavy car skidded on a slippery pavement in Lancaster, Pa., and damaged the Flanders' rear axle, necessitating repairs which delayed the car's arrival at Gettysburg. Peter Kunz, of Detroit, will be at the wheel of 53 in the Georgia tour.

Car No. 55 will be of especial interest in Georgia, as it is the first "Witt Special" type Flanders "20" to be produced by the big Detroit factory after the design of Frank Witt, the former Atlanta race driver. Like 53, it was penalized but once in the Glidden, this being on the run through the downpour to Roanoke, where it was compelled to wait for two hours on the bank of a swollen mountain torrent, the ford of which was blocked by the deserted wreck of a 90-horse power car entered in the tour. Before the big car could be extricated, two hours had been lost, and the Flanders received its only penalty of the tour. This car will be driven round the state by Thomas R. Bell, of Detroit.

Both 53 and 54 of the Flanders fleet are foredoor touring cars of the latest type. With the Witt special roadster they will represent the very latest in style and design of a model which has become very popular in Georgia, and, in fact, throughout the entire south.

Cars 54 and 55 will be shipped direct to Atlanta, from here. Kunz and car 53 have been secured by the American Auto Association for the use of its official pilot on a road mapping excursion to lay out a route between Charlotte and Jacksonville via Savannah, Augusta and Columbia. This car will be returned to Atlanta in about a week.

ADVERTISING TALKS.

WRITTEN BY

WILLIAM C. FREEMAN.

NORMAN MACK, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, gave the members of the Sphinx Club something to think about at its October meeting.

He made a fine talk. He gave his hearers a little INSIDE HISTORY as to how political campaigns are managed, and said, among other things, that in 1908, when he and his associates were managing the Bryan campaign, they received a total contribution from the people of about $600,000, the greater part of which was paid in to the treasurer during the last three weeks of the campaign.

Mr. Mack said that out of this large sum of money he had spent in NEWSPAPER AND MAGAZINE ADVERTISING the sum of $40,000, and that this ex-

JOE BROWN OPPOSES FURTHER MEDDLING WITH PROHIBITION EXCEPT BY REFERENDUM VOTE

In Clear-Cut Statement on Action of Executive Committee, Former Governor Declares Liquor Question Must Go Directly to the People for Final Settlement.

". . . in the event of my election, I shall not favor any legislation upon this (prohibition) subject unless it carries with it an 'opportunity for approval or disapproval by the people at the ballot box."—Joseph M. Brown.

The above declaration closing a statement given out Friday on the action of the state committee in refusing to submit the liquor question to a vote in the coming primary sets forth the position former Governor Brown will take on the liquor question in the present campaign for governor.

It is probably the governor's last statement on the subject, as he holds that the action of the state committee virtually eliminated the issue as one to be fought over by the candidates for governor.

While he does not use those terms, it is generally understood that if elected he will veto any measure changing the present status unless it provides for referendum before going into effect.

This means, if he is elected, present laws will remain intact until the people are given opportunity to express their views on the subject.

Have Never Voted on Law.

The people of the state have not passed on the present prohibition law by direct vote. It is claimed that the invariable rule in the states making experiments with prohibitive measures have been unable to accomplish anything until those measures secured the clearly expressed sanction of the people. Leading prohibitionists, before the passage of the act of 1907, frequently endeavored to secure a popular expression on the issue, holding then as they argue now, that an overwhelming majority of the people of the state favor state-wide prohibition. Several times their leaders appeared before the state committee urging submission of the question along the line suggested to the committee by Governor Brown on Thursday.

On the other hand, anti-prohibitionists' main objection to the present status of the liquor question in Georgia has been on the ground that it had not been sanctioned by the people and amounted virtually to sumptuary legislation. They have declared repeatedly that if by a direct vote the people say they desire state-wide prohibitive statutes they, the local optionists, will submit gracefully to the dictum.

It is believed that Governor Brown's stand with regard to the matter will hasten a settlement of the vexed question, inasmuch, it is argued, it has never been settled anywhere except by direct vote.

It is Governor Brown's wish that it be settled by the white people in a primary, but the legislature cannot refer measures to primaries. Therefore, the only stand a governor could take would be for reference to the people, preferably to the white people alone, if found possible.

As a matter of fact, leading prohibitionists were sponsors for the present prevailing negro disfranchisement law, which they claimed would eliminate the colored voter from all elections.

ROCKEFELLER INSTITUTE FINDS MENINGITIS CURE

New York, October 27.—A discovery wherebyq epidemic spinal meningitis can be entirely controlled was announced by Dr. Simon Flexner, director of the Rockefeller institute for medical research, at the closing session of the conference of sanitary officers of New York state here today. The control could be established, Dr. Flexner said, by injecting serum into the cerebral spinal membrane, thus getting at the seat of the disease.

"It has taken much money and a long time to perfect this cure," said Dr. Flexner. "This is the first time I have announced it, as only very recently have I demonstrated to my own satisfaction that the serum I have prepared will do as I claim.

"Influenza meningitis in the child which has caused so many deaths and which spreads so rapidly will, with the application of this new form of treatment be not one-tenth as dangerous as it was before."

GEORGIA TOUR SAFE AND SANE

Many Inquiries Made About the Running Time.

The Time Allowance Is Very Liberal, and There Is No Necessity for Speeding at Any Point—Tourists' Pleasure Tour.

In response to many inquiries regarding the running time for the coming Tour Around Georgia, the executive committee for the tour has promised that at no time shall it be permitted to become a speed contest.

Participants in the Georgia tour may enter it with the absolute assurance that it will be in no sense a speed or endurance contest, but a tourists' tour for pleasure and instruction, with just enough restrictions to lend zest to the great "sport of the road."

The Georgia tour is to be run in the interests of good roads and the development of important routes leading from the northern to the southern section of the state, as well as across the southern portion—routes which will become, in a sense, permanent and will continue to be sought by the tourists for many years to come.

It is also designed to give entrants opportunity to see the state and to enjoy a drive through some of its richest sections, taking in the big automobile races in Savannah, November 27 to 30, inclusive.

About the Schedule.

As the result of liberal rules the actual running time required will be considerably less than that stated, and the maximum running time for the largest cars on the best roads will be less than 17 miles per hour.

Under the rules cars costing more than $2,500 are called on for an average running speed of 18 miles per hour.

But the time taken for each stop may be used for running without penalization. An hour stop is allowed for lunch. If lunch is finished in twenty minutes, the car has forty minutes additional in which to make the run between night controls, without counting against it. This will make the running time of the largest cars considerably less than 17 miles per hour.

In addition to that the referee will be instructed to make most liberal allowance in case of bad roads at any point or bad weather, reducing the speed still further where conditions may require it.

Can Repair at Any Time.

A car may make repairs at any time and is not limited to its running time for that purpose. A car may make any repairs it desires after being checked in at the night control, or before being checked out in the morning.

The foregoing case is the extreme one. Cars costing from $1,600 to $2,500 will, under the same conditions, be required to make less than 15 miles an hour average; cars costing from $1,000 to $2,000 will be required to make

CHINESE WAR NEARING END

Rebels Will Practically Control the Government.

Imperialists Approach Revolutionists Seeking Compromise. Rebel Chiefs Willing to Negotiate, But Demand a Complete Government Reform.

Shanghai, October 27.—Imperialists have approached leaders of the revolutionists looking to a compromise, according to partly confirmed reports.

The rebel chiefs are willing to negotiate, but demand as basic conditions the appointment of Yuan Shi Kai as premier, the immediate assembling of the promised representative parliament and the complete reformation of the provisional governments throughout the empire.

Negotiations About to Open.

Pekin, October 27.—It was authoritatively announced here this evening that, at the instigation of Yuan Shi Kai, negotiations between the imperialist forces and the revolutionaries in the Yang-tse-Kiang region are about to open.

It was also officially stated that Yuan Shi Kai will proceed to Sin Yang Chow tomorrow to take up the supreme command of the imperial army and navy at the front.

The minister of war, General Yin Tchang, who is at the head of the imperial forces, has been ordered to turn over his command to Yuan Shi Kai and to return to Pekin.

It is generally believed that Ying Tching has been wounded.

The new commander-in-chief ranks the imperial minister of war.

The national assembly resolved to memorialize the throne, requesting the immediate institution of a popular parliament, the reconstruction of the cabinet, with the nobles excluded, and the pardon of political offenders, including the present rebels, as the best means of quelling the rebellion.

The government confirms the recapture of Cheng-Tu by government troops, but does not give details of the fighting.

Sheng Hsuan-Huai, who was removed from the office of minister of posts and communications, as a concession to the national assembly yesterday, had a narrow escape from assassination here today. He fled to the American legation, whence he was later escorted by a squad of ten soldiers to Tien-tsin.

Russia Satisfied With Situation.

Washington, October 27.—Although the reports from China indicate that the purpose of the revolutionary movement there is to establish a reform government, advices received at the state department from Ambassador Guild at St. Petersburg say the rebellion is regarded in Russia as merely a

STEEL COMBINE READY TO FIGHT

Brilliant Legal Minds Engaged in Titanic Battle.

Steel Corporation Will Make No Offer to Readjust Organization — Wickersham Refuses to Say if He Is Considering Criminal Prosecutions.

POSITION OF THREE JUDGES WHO WILL HEAR STEEL CASE

"If a corporation arbitrarily uses its powers to force other competitors or to coerce them into a sale or union with the combination, it puts a restraint on interstate commerce and in a sense violates the anti-trust act. Our decree must forestall future violations and compel the dissolving of the combination now existing."—Opinion in Powder trust case.

Washington, October 27.—The United States Steel Corporation's first step in the titanic legal battle with the government for its existence will be taken Monday, December 4.

On that day an array of counsel which promises to include some of the most brilliant legal minds in America will appear before the United States circuit court at Trenton, N. J., in which the government's dissolution suit has been brought.

On January 2, 1912, the steel corporation is expected to file its answer to the government's sensational charges, which have hardly been paralleled in any anti-trust suits.

Several legal maneuvers, of which the steel corporation's lawyers could avail themselves may postpone the date of their answer, for they have the right to ask the court to give thirty days' grace, thus extending their time to February 2. In the meantime they may demur or file a bill of exceptions. It is possible, however, for the trial to begin January 2.

Master To Take Testimony.

The procedure will be for Judges Gray, Lanning and Buffington to appoint a master to hear testimony. The master will take evidence in various parts of the country. It required a year and a half to take the testimony in the Standard Oil case. The government hopes to do as well with the steel corporation.

With testimony in and both sides heard, the circuit court will decide the issue. Whichever side loses will appeal, and by the operation of the so-called expediting act, the case will jump to the supreme court.

Department of justice officials do not believe the outcome of the steel case will be influenced by the oil and tobacco decisions. Attorney General Wickersham today declared he is convinced more than ever that each case must be settled upon its own merits, and that the oil and tobacco cases cannot fairly be caled "models" for solving the trust question.

Mr. Wickersham was asked aoday if he hoped to see business returned to the conditions of competition.

Readjustment In Order.

"I do not," he replied. "I cannot, because I do not think it possible. We cannot return to our swaddling clothes. We must readjust to a new set of conditions entirely."

"Do you think that can be done within the present laws without further upsetting business?" he was asked.

"I hope so," replied the attorney general, "but I do not know."

"It ought to be made clear," continued Mr. Wickersham, "that there is no conflict in the steel case between the department of justice and the Stanley committee, which has been investigating the steel corporation. The committee has been conducting its investigations to determine what legislation may be desirable to meet the economic question raised by trusts and combinations; the suit filed by the department of justice is a legal proceeding to compel observances of the law."

CHAIRMAN GARY DEFENDS POLICIES OF STEEL TRUST

New York, October 27.—After a day of intense excitement in the stock market, with especially severe declines in the securities of the United States Steel Corporation, the appended statement was issued by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board:

"I think it would be improper for me at this time to make any comments concerning the suit which has been brought by the government against the United States Steel Corporation, except to say I regret exceedingly that the department of justice felt called upon to institute proceedings. If any harm results, it will fall upon the stockholders and employees, aggregating a very large number, and any loss to them must be deplored. It is a time for everyone to keep cool, with a disposition to patiently await results, knowing that in the end justice will be done to all interests.

"I believe a disclosure of all the facts applicable to the allegations contained in the government's bill of complaint as a ground for relief will show that the suit ought to be decided in favor of the corporation on the merits, and that the following facts will be established:

"1. That in the organization of the United States Steel Corporation those in charge had no intention of creating a monopoly or of restraining trade.

"2. That the corporation never has had, or attempted to exercise, a monopoly or to restrain trade.

No Intention to Violate Law.

"3. That the conduct of the affairs of the corporation has clearly and positively negatived any effort or intention to violate any provision of the Sherman law.

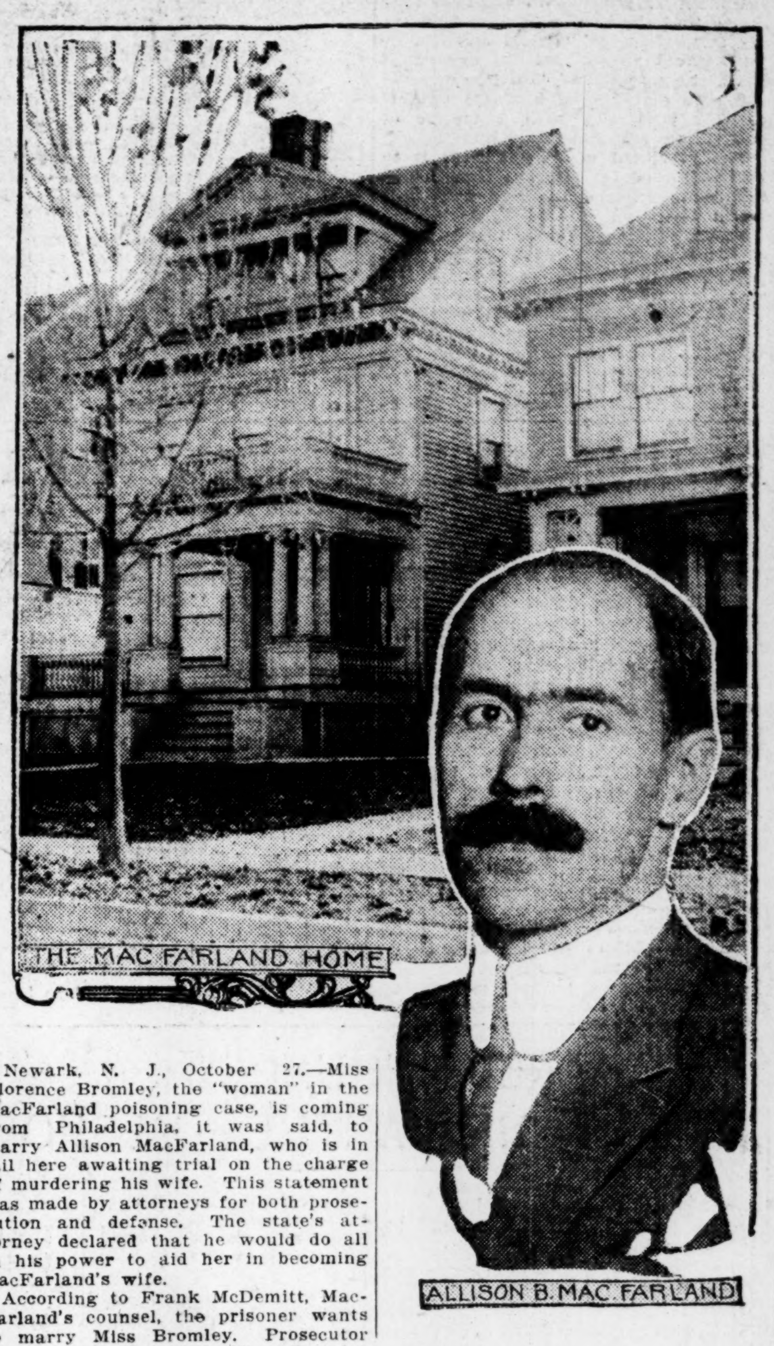
"4. That the existence of the corporation has been of benefit, and not of injury to its employees, its customers, its competitors and the general public.

"5. That no misrepresentation was made to the president relative to the Tennessee Coal and Iron properties, and that the motive of these connected with the purchase was to prevent a threatened general financial disaster, which would have adversely affected the corporation, as well as others."

Fire at Hazlehurst.

Hazlehurst, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—The dwelling house belonging to J. H. Johnson, of Woodstock, Ga., on Tallahassee street, was destroyed by fire this morning at 2 o'clock. The house was occupied by C. L. Conner and C. B. Pace. The fire originated in the loft of the dining room. The house was insured for $1,000, which about covers the loss.

MAN ACCUSED OF POISONING WIFE AND THE HOME WHERE SHE DIED



THE MAC FARLAND HOME

ALLISON B. MAC FARLAND

Newark, N. J., October 27.—Miss Florence Bromley, the "woman" in the MacFarland poisoning case, is coming from Philadelphia, it was said, to marry Allison MacFarland, who is in jail here awaiting trial on the charge of murdering his wife. This statement was made by attorneys for both prosecution and defense. The state's attorney declared that he would do all in his power to aid her in becoming MacFarland's wife.

According to Frank McDemitt, MacFarland's counsel, the prisoner wants to marry Miss Bromley. Prosecutor Mott said today that Miss Bromley could enter New Jersey without fear of arrest. "I will even see that she gets a pass to the jail and do all in my power to see that the ceremony is performed," he added. "We don't need Miss Bromley as a witness; her letters are enough."

Miss Bromley used to be MacFarland's stenographer, and his defense, it has been announced, will be based on the contention that his wife committed suicide after she discovered the relations between him and the girl.

10 MINUTES LIMIT AGAINST AUTOS

Ordinance Against Parking of Machines on Busy Streets

Introduced by Councilman McClelland and Aims at Relieving Congestion in Center of City—Approved by Committee and Goes to Council.

Auto cars, carriages, wagons and other vehicles will not be permitted to stand longer than ten minutes on the central crowded streets if an ordinance is adopted by council which received a favorable report from the ordinance committee yesterday afternoon.

This means that vehicles cannot be parked on the following streets:

Whitehall from Peachtree to Trinity avenue; Peachtree from Whitehall to Porter Place; North Broad from Marietta to Peachtree; south Broad from Alabama to Marietta; Pryor from Mitchell to Peachtree; Decatur from Peachtree to Butler; Edgewood avenue from Peachtree to Pryor.

The ordinance, which was introduced by Councilman John E. McClelland, provides that the parking of vehicles on the streets named shall be prohibited at all hours, and that no vehicle shall stop on such streets longer than ten minutes unless actually engaged in loading or unloading freight.

If the ordinance is adopted and enforced it will result in keeping the central crowded thoroughfares free from vehicles to a great extent and greatly relieve the congestion of traffic.

The ordinance committee also had under consideration an ordinance by Councilman McClelland which requires all autos to come to a full stop when approaching street cars letting off or taking on passengers, provided that as soon as passengers have been taken care of autos can go ahead without waiting for the car to start. The ordinance further provides that no heavy freight wagons or trucks shall go on Whitehall street to Mitchell, and on Peachtree to the north junction of West Peachtree street.

Aldermen Grant and Warren and Councilman McClelland favored the ordinance as a whole. Alderman Kelley favored the first section, but objected to that about freight wagons. Councilman Evins favored the last section, but objected to that about autos stopping for street cars. It was decided to hold up the paper until citizens interested can be given an opportunity to be heard from.

DONS BROTHER'S BLOODY SHIRT

Mrs. M'Rea Watches Albert Garland Re-Enact Tragedy.

As Young Man Assumes Position in Which His Dead Brother Was Found on the Fateful Morning, Defendant Is Visibly Agitated.

Opelousas, La., October 27.—Before a hushed audience that packed the old parish courthouse, Albert Garland today donned the blood-stained shirt worn by his dead brother, Allan, on September 21, and re-enacted the scenes of a tragedy for which Mrs. Zoe Runge McRae, mother of four children and wife of a prominent railroad official, is asked to pay the death penalty.

Mrs. McRae, whose defense is that she killed Allan Garland to protect her honor, was visibly nervous, and constantly turned with an appealing look toward the seven lawyers who are defending her, or grasped the hand of her devoted husband. This grim scene came with the examination of the first witness in a murder trial, which in many of its features already is without precedent in the local history of this parish. Never before had St. Landry parish seen a white woman stand before the bar of justice and face a murder charge; old inhabitants say the "unwritten law" never before entered into a trial here; not before has such an array of legal talent been lined up in a criminal battle in the parish courthouse, nor has any trial in the past so divided the people of St. Landry.

Today's testimony, offered by the prosecution, concerned largely the position in which the body of Allan Garland was found, the location of the three bullet wounds, Mrs. McRae's demeanor as observed by the persons first to arrive on the scene, the preparation of a diagram of the room in the McRae home in which the killing occurred, the way the furniture was placed, and the absence of any evidence of a struggle.

Jury Visits Scene.

The jury visited the McRae home, in company with the defendant, her husband, opposing counsel and court officers, observed the setting of the tragedy just as witnesses saw it on that fateful September 21.

There was no hint of the motive which the prosecution must establish before Mrs. McRae is subject to conviction of first degree murder.

The first witness was Coroner Littell, who described in detail the scenes at the McRae home as he found them thirty minutes after the shooting. It was during Dr. Tittell's testimony that Albert Garland figuratively stood in the shoes of his dead brother, wearing the blood-stained shirt of the deceased.

Re-enacts Tragedy.

Albert Garland was placed in the same position on the floor as that occupied by the body of his brother. The position of the wounds were then indicated, all three being in the back, one at the base of the skull, one just under the right shoulder and the third beneath the left shoulder blade.

Albert Garland was visibly affected as he rehearsed the tragedy, but the emotions which wrung his frame were not more pronounced than those displayed by the woman who was the principal in the tragedy.

During this theatrical recital almost everyone in the court room stood and craned forward to catch every syllable and to see every movement. The defendant stood, as did her husband, and the relatives and friends who surrounded her.

Dr. Littell identified a nickle-plated 38-caliber revolver as the weapon which Mrs. McRae turned over to him.

Frequent Audits
As a Safeguard

Aside from the Government examinations to which all National Banks are subjected at intervals, this bank has a system of frequent voluntary audits.

This is a very good thing, indeed.

Not only does the audit company make its examinations without previous notice, but ONCE A MONTH every penny of the bank's cash is counted.

Full reports of these examinations are made to the Directors of the bank and are published in the local press.

We have found this plan an admirable one.

Does it not commend itself to you as worth consideration?

"No, sir; he had on a shirt."

"No, sir."

Mrs. Henry C. Garland, the 70-year-old grandmother of the deceased, was the last witness of the day.

Aged Woman Testifies.

After being sworn, the aged woman was assisted to the chair on the witness stand by H. L. Garland, of New Orleans, a son. She was clad in deepest mourning, her snow-white hair a marked contrast with the somber black bonnet she wore.

"Mrs. McRea used to come to our house often," said she, in answer to questions. "She had dinner at our house any number of times, and often slept at our house."

"The day Allan was killed he answered the telephone and told me that Mrs. McRea said—"

An objection by the defense was sustained.

"All right," said Mrs. Garland, rubbing her nose with her handkerchief, "I won't talk until you say so, gentlemen.

"I'm not a bit excited," and she sat up very straight in her chair, quiet and composed, under the gaze of several hundred pairs of eyes, and waited until the attorneys finished their legal squabble.

"I went down to the house. Mrs. McRea and her husband were in the yard. 'In God's name, Mrs. McRea, what is the matter?' I asked.

"To Protect My Honor."

"'I have just shot and killed Allan Garland,' she said.

"'Why, in God's name, did you do that?' I asked, and she said, 'I shot him to protect my honor.'

"I turned to her and said 'Mrs. McRea, every woman has the right to defend her honor, but what in God's name did he say that caused you to shoot him?' She said he had asked her if her husband was going to be home that night and that she had asked him what he meant by asking such an inquiry and that Allan replied that if her husband was not going to be home that he would come over and spend the night.

"I told her that I wanted to go into the room where my poor boy lay," Mrs. Garland continued. "'Let me go in there, Mrs. McRea,' I said, 'he may not be dead.' She turned to me and said:

"'I assure you he is dead, Mrs. Garland, I shot him three times.'"

When Mrs. Garland said this, Mrs. McRea turned to one of her attorneys and audibly whispered: "I never said that to her."

"Did Mrs. MeRea belong to the Order of the Eastern Star?" asked Lee Garland, taking up the questioning for the prosecutor.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness. "She often went to the night meetings of the lodge."

"Where did she leave her children when she went to these night meetings?"

The defense objected to the question and Judge Pavy said he would hear argument tomorrow morning when the jury was absent. Court thereupon adjourned until 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

POLITICS PLAYS NO PART IN TRUST PROSECUTIONS

—Wm. H. Taft

Chicago, October 27.—In a speech here tonight which is regarded as having a direct bearing upon the government's latest trust prosecution against the United States Steel Corporation, President Taft denied in vigorous language that the administration was being influenced by political motives.

"I would rather cut off my right hand," he exclaimbed, "than to do anything to disturb the business of this country especially with a motive of cultivating political success."

The president said he wanted it to be understood for all time that he intended to enforce the anti-trust law to the letter.

There was no doubt as to what was in the president's mind when he said:

"I come to the subject of the trusts at a time when the matter is boiling."

"We have a condition of lawlessness to deal with. We have had it for twenty years. Men have gone on organizing combinations in violation of the anti-trust law on the theory that it either could not or would not be enforced. The supreme court has held that this is lawlessness and must be stamped out. There is no discretion in the executive to suspend a single statute. It is his duty to enforce the law and to direct the prosecution of those who violate it.

"There is a vast difference between uniting plants to reduce the cost of production and uniting to suppress competition, to restrain trade and control prices. A jury could find that difference in two minutes. It is a question of evidence and fact.

"I am just now in the remarkable position of being charged with an attempt to destroy business by enforcing the anti-trust statute and of having set up the supreme court to emasculate the statute in the interest of the trusts.

"I am hopeful that this period of strain soon will end; that business soon will square itself with the law. I believe a majority of business already is square with the law.

There is the only way I know of to cure the corporations that are suffering from contagion and disease and that is to eradicate the disease. The law will be enforced to the letter. Now I hope that is understood."

ROSA MANDEL PAINFULLY HURT BY DESPERATE SNATCH THIEF

While walking down Crumley avenue toward her home last night at 6:30 o'clock, 15-year-old Rosa Mandel was painfully hurt by a well-dressed white man who endeavored to tear from her neck a gold locket suspended there. Miss Mandel was accompanied by her younger brother, and when, after a desperate fight with the would-be robber, she succeeded in tearing away from him, both were pursued down Crumley street for half a block before the highwayman gave up the chase.

When the girl reached home she was almost in hysterics, while the boy was speechless from fright. Later both were able to give a good description of the man who attacked them. The police were immediately called, Call Officers West and Brannen responding and are now searching for the girl's assailant.

Miss Mandel sustained painful cuts on the back of her neck, caused by the locket chain pulled by the highwayman, sawing back and forward across it in the struggle. The locked was saved.

The two Mandel children, who live at 261 Crumley street, had accompanied their father to the car line and had started on the return home when a well-dressed white man approached the two and asked for direction to the car line. Using this as an excuse, he drew near the girl and grasped the locket, jerking it repeatedly in an effort to tear it from her neck. She fought desperately and after several moments managed to tear away.

The man disappeared after chasing the two for some distance. He is unknown.

Wrong Addresses Published.—In a recent story appearing in The Constitution it was stated that Mrs. G. N. Burdett, who was arrested for disorderly conduct, gave as her address 379 Courtland street. She does not and never has lived at that address, and is not known there, stated E. W. Payne, who resides at 379 Courtland.

The Art of Living.

"The art of living" is no empty phrase. To know how to live, as relates to body, mind and soul, is surely an art that many live through a lifetime without acquiring. They just get along from day to day in the essential of living, without inquiring into, or understanding, or appreciating their basic value or their relation to each other and to self, as some people live from hand to mouth as relates to the material supplies. To know what to do and how to do for the best welfare, or knowing to haye self-control and determination enough to do, requires wisdom and that possession of self that do not come naturally to the mass of the people.

So the mass of the people jog along or rush along the lane of happenchance and take what comes to them, without much planning to bring to themselves what they would like to have or to avoid what they don't like. It is mostly because they do not know how to plan, to control, and possess; and they miss a lot of good results and many compensations.

On the mind and soul side of life they must learn for themselves. Suggestions are offered from hundreds of sources, but the course must be run for one's self. On the physical side the way seems plainer, for the rule of good health consists almost entirely of a series of "Dos" and a series of "Don'ts" subject to personal modification and personal application. But here again self-control and determination are necessary to make the application positive and effective.

American Medicine rates the man or woman of 40 a fit subject for advice. It hangs out a sign, which might fitly be headed "Caution." This is its substance: That the physical system begins to decay along about the age of 40 or 45; that while that age was once the years of old age, today by reason of the teachings of civilization to let up on the physical strain, life has lengthened, yet if the strain is continued there will almost inevitably come the break as of old, that while exercise is necessary, the tissues simply cannot stand excessive exercise, and this is the secret of the large number of damaged hearts, which will continue to increase in number and severity until the medical profession succeeds in impressing the lesson." In conclusion: "Let us repeat it over and over again until every man over 40 or 45 realizes that he has lived his allotted time of physical vigor and must ease up the strains to retain his health."

This does not mean that 40 or 45 is the age to put aside ambitions and effort, and to rest on one's laurels or to go forever without laurels. It only means to rest occasionally on one's oar, and between while to row only so hard and so fast and so far as one feels really fit. To set a goal and a time limit may be wise enough as a spur, but there should be no foolish pride to prevent a halt, if a halt is best.

PANIC SEIZES CITY OF TRIPOLI

Mussulman Force of 60,000 Is Said to Be Marching on the City.

Malta, October 27.—Uncensored information from Tripoli is to the effect that something in the nature of a panic has seized the city since it became known that a Mussulmans force of 60,000 Turks and Arabs is threatening Tripoli. The Mussulmen are well armed.

But for a premature attack by a party of Mussulmen on last Monday, the Italians would have been ambushed, completely surrounded and few would have survived, so numerically superior were the Turks and Arabs. In the subsequent revolt in the city the Italians suffered more than 180 casualties before they gained the ascendancy. From forty to fifty Arabs are shot daily in the town.

Too Pretty a Lake for That.

(From The New York Press.)

"China gave me many a shock," said the returned traveler, "but the one that nearly carried me off was administered in the Fuchau district. Out in the country I came across a beautiful little lake drained by a beautiful little river. The scenery was marred somewhat, however, by signs stuck up every few yards at the edge of the lake. I wondered what their import was, and on one of my trips to the lake I took a missionary friend along to translate.

"'Oh, that,' said he. 'There are not many of them left in this district. That is a warning that girls must not be drowned in this lake.'

"Somehow I could never admire my beautiful lake so much after that, although maybe I ought to have admired it more."

Not as It Seems.

(From The Baltimore American.)

"No."

"You're lucky."

"Not at all. She doesn't begin because she never stops."

PASTOR RICHESON SCORES A POINT

Letters, Photographs and Pictures of the Clergyman Won't Be Produced.

Boston, October 27.—Counsel for the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, the clergyman accused of the murder of Avis Linnell, succeeded today in defeating the plan of the prosecution to compel the defense to produce before the grand jury letters, photographs and other papers taken from the minister's rooms after his arrest.

It is understood that the articles, upon which the government places much importance, include a number of letters written to Richeson by women friends, including Miss Linnell.

The special session of the grand jury, which has been sitting on the case for the past two days, failed to complete the examination before adjournment was taken this afternoon until Monday morning. It is probable, however, according to District Attorney Pelletier, that all the witnesses will have been heard by Monday evening.

"My boy is going to be acquitted," said Thomas V. Richeson, father of the Cambridge pastor, as he left tonight for his home in Virginia. "As sure as I am living I know I am going back to Virginia without any stain on the name of Richeson, which will not be wiped out when the courts get into action." Mr. Richeson said he came to Boston to hear from his son's lips a denial of the charge pending against him.

UNION SERVICES PROVE SUCCESS

Large Audiences Attending the Second Baptist and Central Presbyterian Meetings.

The union revival services of the Second Baptist church and the Central Presbyterian church, which have been held this week and will continue through next week, have been the most successful in the history of both churches.

Probably the largest attendance of any meeting was at last night's services, when Dr. John E. White delivered an impressive sermon on "Repentance," at the Second Baptist. He declared that the present-day church was forced to contend with a fraternity of backsliders, composed of not only sinners, but also of alleged Christians.

"To overcome this dread handicap that threatens us," said Dr. White, "there are three steps that, according to my views, a backslider may use with effect in overcoming his evil. The first of these is honest reflection; the second, earnest resolutions, and the third, a practical revolution from the condition that has made him a detriment to Christianity. I always have hope in a backslider. He is susceptible to the workings of Christianity as he is to backsliding, and only the efforts of Christians are needed to effect his reformation."

This morning, at 12 o'clock, and tonight at 8, there will be held services in the Second Baptist church, and beginning with Sunday's meetings, the remainder of the revival will be held in the Central Presbyterian church, with Rev. Dunbar Ogden, assisted by Rev. White, officiating.

Rev. Crawford Declines Call.

West Point, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Rev. L. B. Crawford, pastor of the Lanett Baptist church, has decided to remain there instead of accepting the call to take charge of the Phoenix City church. He has many friends who would regret to see him leave, as his loss to the church would mean much to it, as he has done a great deal for it during his stay of two years.

Negro Loses Considerable Sum.

West Point, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Jim Pogue, a hard-working old negro, who lives on the plantation of Jesse Johnson, near West Point, lost $160 that he had, by close economy for years, been able to save. He went to spend the night with a sick friend, and on his return home found his money gone. They have not as yet been able to locate the thief, much to the regret of Jim and his friends.

GLIDDEN TOURISTS PRESENT CUP TO PRESIDENT HOOPER

Jacksonville, Fla., October 27.—(Special.)—R. P. Hooper, president of the American Automobile Association, and pacemaker of the Glidden tour since the death of S. M. Butler and the injury of Referee P. J. Walker on Wednesday, was the recipient of a handsome silver loving cup this afternoon.

A small party had been selected from the Atlanta and Jacksonville people on the tour to go down the river to the Country Club on the yacht of L. A. Mitchell, a local automobile man. While out, the suggestion was made that it would be most appropriate to present President Hooper a souvenir of the trip, and immediately a local jeweler was telephoned to and a large cup, 16 inches high, was secured and appropriately engraved. It was a surprise party for Mr. Hooper, who has made friends of everyone on the trip by his good humor, good fellowship and tact in handling the various complications that arose.

Referee P. J. Walker was also remembered by all the tourists, who presented him with a beautiful silver cup, this secured by a fund to which all the tourists voluntarily contributed. The room in the Seminole where Mr. and Mrs. Walker are resting after the accident at Tifton, where each received broken bones, has been made a bower of flowers by gifts of the tourists.

The trip to the famous ostrich farm which was advertised for today, was called off. The auto ride down to Atlantic Beach, which the Jacksonville people had planned for the tourists, also went by the board because the visitors did not understand they were expected to use their own cars, and had shipped most of them home. The tourists, therefore, looked after themselves for today and had a nice quiet, restful time.

CHICAGO GAME GREATEST EVER PLAYED, SAYS COMEDIAN

Jeff de Angeles, comedian, a man considered one of the funniest, and therefore one of the brainiest men in his profession, does not think that the greatest baseball game in the world was waged between the Athletics and the Giants.

"The greatest baseball battle of the world was never fought between the Athletics and the Giants," said he. "It was fought between a team of the 'Beauty Spot' chorus and a team of the Chicago Newspaper Club, when I was playing in Chicago.

"It was at Malachay Hogan's benefit. We got the newspaper men to come out.

"Pitching was Chris Haggerty, who is now in China for the Associated Press. Playing first base was Grafton S. Willcox, a star of the A. P. service. At second base was Ted Phillips, who was the man who exposed the Lorimer scandal. At third was Karl D. Pancake, who admits having been fired twenty-six times in Chicago, and who always holds a big job.

"In left field was Harry Schraudenbach, news editor of The Examiner. In center field none other than the renowned James Keeley, and in right field was George Ade. The catcher was an Atlanta man. His name was Fuzzy Woodruff."

ASHBURN TO GET CHEAPER RATES

Five-Cent Reduction on Cotton Ordered by the Railroad Commission.

By an order of the railroad commission, issued yesterday, the town of Ashburn will have cheaper rates on cotton to the ports than have prevailed in the past.

The citizens complained that a lower rate on cotton to the ports of Savannah and Brunswick was being allowed Cordele than was allowed Ashburn by the Gulf line railroad and the Georgia, Southern and Florida.

After investigation the commission ordered that Ashburn be put on a par with Cordele and the rate on cotton is thereby reduced five cents per hundred pounds, or from thirty-seven to thirty-two cents per hundred.

The difference in the rate, according to the railroads, was because Ashburn had been classed as a local point and therefore received a local rate, while Cordele had been classed as a common point and received a cheaper rate.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR W. B. NORTON

Jury Finds the Deputy Sheriff Guilty of the Murder of R. L. Smith.

Gray, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—W. B. Norton, the widely-known deputy sheriff of Macon, was found guilty of murder today for the killing of R. L. Smith, of Jones county, and was sentenced to life imprisonment. The case went to the jury at 3:30 o'clock. The verdict, with a recommendation for mercy, was returned at 5:30 o'clock.

One of the most interesting cases ever tried in Jones county is thus brought to a conclusion. At one time the feeling against Norton was so intense that it was thought best to remove him from Jones county, where he was imprisoned, to the Bibb county jail.

The killing of Smith occurred while Deputy Norton was in search of a negro desperado. Norton traced the black to the extreme northern edge of Bibb county and even followed him across the line into Jones county. While in this locality he came suddenly upon a wagon which he thought contained the negro he was looking for. When the wagon refused to halt upon his command, he fired into it, with the intention, he said, of frightening the occupants into submission. The wagon, however, did not contain the wanted negro and the bullet hit and killed Smith, one of the most popular white men of the county.

HAPPY TOURISTS RETURNING HOME

Gliddenites, Enthusiastic Over Their Trip, Leaving Jacksonville.

Atlanta Is Commended for Part Played in Obtaining Tour—Good Records Made by a Number of Cars Entered by Atlantans.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Jacksonville, Fla., October 27.—(Special.—Today saw the general breaking up of the Glidden tourist party. Auto toggery was packed away, cars were made ready for loading on freight trains and boats for shipment home, the tourists themselves are leaving on the night trains, and the mud-bespattered motor cars and khaki-clad sportsmen have disappeared like the melting ice after the breaking up of a hard winter.

A large party of Atlantans left in a special car over the Southern railway tonight, in charge of J. C. Freeman, division passenger agent of the road. Others left on the Dixie Flyer of the Central.

This morning the tourists were given a boat ride on the beautiful St. John's river on the little yacht Ives. The St. John's is one of the two large rivers in the North American continent which flows north, the other being the St. Lawrence. Jacksonville is just 20 miles from the sea. And the tide rises and falls perceptibly here.

Atlanta's Part Praised.

The public spirit and enterprise of Atlanta in making the tour possible has been favorably commented upon by all those who participated, despite the fact that the Jacksonville newspapers are pluming themselves over getting the tour. It was also announced here with great enthusiasm that the reception accorded the tourists in Jacksonville surpassed that of any other place on the route.

The tour was held under the auspices of the Automobile Association of America. The Atlanta Journal defrayed one-half of the expense in order to have the tour follow the national highway; the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce contributed one-fourth of the expense, or $1,500, and the Jacksonville board of trade one-fourth. Atlanta thus made up three-fourths of the fund. There is no use in being captious about such things, and Atlanta can afford to be generous and let Jacksonville have all the credit they wish to claim.

The Stevens Duryea cars, which bore the banner of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, gave a great account of themselves. C. H. Johnson and Crawford Wheatley proved themselves splendid drivers for amateurs.

Praising Their Cars.

There has been much boasting today of the performance of the various cars on the trip down. President R. P. Hooper has written an enthusiastic letter to the manufacturers of the Garford car, praising its wonderful performance. Mr. Hooper drove his Garford every foot of the way, making 20 miles an hour over mountains and through sand heaps. He came through with the same air in his tires with which he left New York, and insists that he only put one quart of water in his radiator, and that on yesterday. The car had one mishap, and that was to break its trunk rack yesterday when it dropped into a sand hole. This minor accident to a fixture was the sum total of the mischief done. When the trunk had been picked up and carried to the express office at Sanderson Mr. Hooper returned to find his car up to the hubs in the shifting sand, and it took four negroes to lift it sufficiently for the wheels to get traction.

St. Elmo Massengale's Garford also made a splendid record for performance and economy of fuel and water consumption. The car made every control except the night control at Roanoke, despite the fact that it had no crank since leaving New York. The engine worked perfectly and it was never necessary to refill the radiator with water.

The Atlanta Ad Men's Corbin No. 21, with Dr. T. H. Brannen and Paul Reese on board, came through on New York air and water absolutely. There were no adjustments necessary except to put some dry dirt on the clutch. The car ran out of gasoline once and arrived 23 minutes late, but that unlucky number being the extent of their penalization did not mean good-by to the Atlanta Ad Men.

Dr. Brannen's little monologue on "How to Be Happy" was delivered 416 times en route, accompanied by the Pilgrims' chorus.

Marathons Do Well.

The performance of the Marathon cars, manufactured by the Marathon Motor Works, of Nashville, Tenn., has been commented upon most favorably. These $1,200 cars were in the 18-hour class, but invariably made 20 over all kinds of roads, arriving at noon and night controls with a liberal margin of time to spare. No. 58, driven by W. F. Anderson, was held up by tire trouble and muddy roads coming into Roanoke and delayed 43 minutes. That was the only delinquency on the entire trip. The hood of the machine was never raised from New York to Jacksonville except to oil up the engine. The car had its close calls, but the cool judgment and steady hand of the driver prevented mishaps when an ugly spill threatened.

Magnet was not man enough for Marjorie, but he was the only man she knew until Trafford dropped from the sky in the nick of time And so Marjorie married, but did they live happily forever after? You don't know Wells. This was merely the beginning of "Marriage," H. G. Wells' story in The American Magazine. For Marjorie was frightfully extravagant; Trafford was not rich, and soon there was the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker—as well as the devil—to pay. All the humor and drama and human nature that made "Tono-Bungay" and "Mr. Polly" the best books you ever read, make "Marriage" a better book than either.

H. G. Wells
makes money the master motive in "Marriage"

Money, the most talked about in life, the least discussed in fiction, of all the many sources of trouble between husband and wife. In a thoroughly unexpected and Wells-like manner the author solves it, not by abolishing Marjorie's extravagance or Trafford's indigence. No! By abolishing the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker, and the dressmaker and jeweler as well. How? That's the story, a story so natural and yet so surprising that you will exclaim, "How true, and yet how interesting!"

ZUBER BOUND OVER FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Bond Placed at $2,000, and Immediately Given by Friends.

Charged with manslaughter, P. W. Zuber, who recently shot and killed Mayor W. H. Johnson, of Oakhurst, was bound over in the Decatur courthouse Thursday after a fierce legal battle.

The bond placed at $2,000, was immediately made by Zuber and friends. The case will come to trial next March in the Stone Mountain circuit of superior court.

In the preliminary trial Thursday, Zuber was represented by Coroner Paul Donehoo and Colonel L. S. Steel, who plead self defense.

The prosecution was conducted by C. S. Reed, solicitor of DeKalb county; Marc Bolding and Alonzo Field. The closing speech, made by Colonel Reed, was a terrific arraignment of Zuber, who, the lawyer declared, killed Johnson in a fit of passion, and not in self defense.

JOINING CURIOUS CROWD, SHE FINDS FATHER DEAD

Tampa, Fla., October 27.—When Miss Ruth Hibbard this morning joined a curious crowd which had gathered at the engine house of a drawbridge to view the body of a man who had been killed, she discovered that the victim was her father, Marion M. Hibbard. She fainted at the sight. Hibbard, a machinist, was repairing the machinery and was caught and crushed to death.

BIG RATTLESNAKE CAUGHT IN RAT TRAP IN CENTRAL AVENUE HOME

Reptiles and wild animals of all kinds have been caught in numerous and devious ways, and the ingenuity of man has been taxed to the limit to devise all sorts of traps for the wary creatures of the lower kingdom, but it remained for a serpent, whose very name is synonymous with wisdom, to blacken the proud record of his ancestry by literally being caught "like a rat in a trap."

And it was a rattlesnake—an old-timer, at that, boasting eight rattles and a button—who brought this shame upon the heritage left by his forefathers, who forced the wise men of old to create the figure of speech "as wise as a serpent."

The rattler was caught Wednesday morning in a rat-trap which James McDonough, of 87 Central avenue, had set in the basement of his house to catch rodents. Mr. McDonough discovered it when he went down to collect the morning's harvest, and he was warned to approach warily by the vicious wirring of his snakeship's rattles.

Whether the snake went into the trap in pursuit of a rat, or whether he was lying in wait for a prospective arrival and accidentally sprung the [illegible] by a swish of his tail is not known. At any rate, he fell a hapless victim to his venturesome and inquiring disposition.

The trap was a box-like arrangement invented by Mr. McDonough, and the rattler was the first to prove its effectiveness. It is supposed that it must have been disturbed from its winter slumber, under the old court house, which is being torn down, and crawled into the basement in search of a new home. The snake was sold by Mr. McDonough for $2.

The steel trust doesn't ask for mercy, being ignorant of the quality of it.

Political orators everywhere talk as cheerfully as if they were paid for it.

As steel trust goes down, will Mr. Morgan go up—or stand pat on the earth he owns?

How beautifully the Georgia campaign is ambling on to the interesting fighting stage.

Since a certain loud Arkansas senator married and subsided, the state is going forward with a rush.

Should Autumn "set the hills on fire," we have been promised rain enough to put the blaze out.

No one will expect President Taft to love Wisconsin for the insurgent enemies he has made there.

World is going too fast to turn for the purpose of seeing where Mr. Taft stands one day and another.

Rudyard Kipling will never read the suffragettes out of their party if he is going to attempt it with a poem.

If Mr. Bryan doesn't read Mr. Hearst out of the party, he may "hoodoo" him with his everlasting "13" questions.

"Two-fifths of the world's 100,000,000 swine are in the United States," says a news item. This is a subtle blow at the trusts.

Mr. Rockefeller needn't look for sympathy any more. Some ill-advised friend has announced that he has descended from kings.

Even if a republic is proclaimed in China, her troubles will not be over, for she may have a congress with the wearisome extra session habit.

Colonel Roosevelt says he will not take a hand in the next New York campaign. He has no idea of risking the loss of his own ward again.

A good fall novel, a fine winter fire, and one's debts all paid—but it is just like poor human nature to desire heaven before the date set for it!

Don't blame that Terre Haute young lady for changing the name of "Ottorordemgenschenfelde"—it looked too much like a linotype run wild.

The battleship display in New York harbor will make Hobson so happy that he may not suffer from the Yellow Peril nightmare for a month of Sundays.

National candidates who imagine that they are solid propositions, forget that solid bodies hit hard when they come dashing down through waves of hot air.

Having raised a howling, hostile mob in Copenhagen, Dr. Cook may return to tell us: "There was such a storm of applause from the enthusiastic audience, I couldn't hear myself talk."

When the suffragette is qualifying for jury duty and the court asks her age, it is possible that the judge will be frozen to the spot, while the high sheriff and the court bailiffs scramble for the roof.

Of course, as Mr. Bryan says, "no democrat cares about office." But knowing how the gift of office has been abused by republicans, he is perfectly willing to sacrifice himself for his country's good.

CLIMAXING TRUST PROSECUTIONS.

The suit for dissolution brought by the government against the so-called "steel trust" marks an historic climax in the campaign to enforce the Sherman law, and in breadth of indictment and inclusiveness of penalties sought to be decreed is clearly without parallel. The proceedings against Standard Oil and the American Tobacco Company were sufficiently striking in their reach and effect. But the involvement of the country's premier financiers—the men whose names have for years been identified with final control in industry, corporations and finance—causes the suit against the United States Steel Corporation to hopelessly overshadow its two big predecessors.

The government announces its intention not to be content with the simple breaking up of the corporation proper. The constituent parts, many in number and scattered throughout the nation, are also to be dissolved if the courts sustain the contentions brought against them, collectively and individually.

The filing of the suit and the sweep of its allegations is, in effect, the answer of President Taft to the charge of undue leniency toward vast combinations. For it is inconceivable that proceedings of such magnitude should have been inaugurated without his complete knowledge and consent. Incidentally, the affair is given a curious political twist by the charge to the effect that the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company was illegal. It will be remembered that this act was expressly sanctioned by former President Roosevelt during the financial stringency of 1908. It is now alleged by the government that Mr. Roosevelt was "misled" as to the exigencies of the situation. What influence this development is to exert upon the already strained relations between the present and the former republican administrations is material for interesting conjecture.

The case will, of course, be fought bitterly and to the last ditch by the defendants. They have unlimited money resources and the ablest legal ability of the land at their command. The battle will not stop short of the United States supreme court, though it will not reach that tribunal for final adjudication until the new member succeeding Justice Harlan has been appointed. There is no present reason to doubt that the court will cleave to its "rule of reason" interpretation of the Sherman law, laid down in the two important preceding cases, and it is not in evidence that the accession of new blood will be of any effect, save, perhaps, to create a dissenting minority.

It is to be hoped, in justice to the large and small business interests, the people generally of America, that this threshing out of great issues will be concluded with all the speed compatible with thoroughness. Uncertainty regarding the status of the corporations has been one of the most prolific sources of commercial and economic unrest in this country. The Sherman law is on the statute books. It must be enforced against injurious monopolies in violation of its provisions. In the meantime, it is well to remember that the business of the country is in a state of suspended progress. Justice must be conserved, the rights of all the people must be protected. But the useless prolongation of the process may jeopardize the very ends at which the prosecution and the law itself aim.

SHORTER'S SPLENDID PROGRESS.

Worthy of notice as typifying the electrical spirit that is abroad in the south in behalf of higher education is the splendidly constructive record of Shorter College, at Rome, Ga. In a little over a year's time the old Shorter, rich in traditions and popularity, has been replaced by the Greater Shorter, on a new and beautiful site near Rome, with a plant of five magnificent new buildings and other equipment of commensurate standard.

In the summer of 1910 a movement was launched, under the inspiration and direction of President A. W. Van Hoose, to raise a campaign fund of $150,000 for Greater Shorter. The quick success with which the effort was crowned is the more notable for the fact that every college in the state and south is now bidding for enlargement and endowment funds. During recent years, as well as during the Greater Shorter campaign, prominent Romans testified to their affection for the college and their confidence in its management and purposes by large contributions, the sums in individual instances reaching $25,000 and $75,000. In addition, Captain J. L. Bass, of Rome, gave to the institution a grant of land valued at $75,000.

Work was begun on the new plant on June 7, 1911, with the intention of having it completed by the time the college opened, October 18. Even the closest friends of the college doubted if so large an undertaking could be brought to conclusion within that period. But the institution opened its doors and classes upon the date scheduled, offering to its students and faculty accommodations and equipment that are unsurpassed in the country.

Shorter's militant example should give a stimulus to college enlargement movements throughout the south. High praise is due the energy and devotion of Dr. Van Hoose. Even these aggressive qualities would, however, have been expended in vain had not the loyal people of Rome and of Georgia rallied so enthusiastically to the banner of the college.

FIRE INSURANCE IN ATLANTA.

At the instance of Ernest L. Rhodes, a prominent business man and member of the chamber of commerce, it is probable that the business and insurance men, the chamber and the city itself will cooperate in an investigation of the fire insurance rates and regulations prevailing in Atlanta. As related in The Constitution, Mr. Rhodes has addressed a letter to Mayor Winn, to J. K. Orr, of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association; to Ralph Rosenbaum, of the Atlanta Credit Men's Association, and to President Paxon, of the chamber of commerce, setting forth that rates for fire protection in Atlanta exceed those asked in Baltimore and other cities, and suggesting the amplification of city and state laws touching fire insurance.

No harm can come from a thorough inquiry into the fire insurance situation in this city. The collective bill of the business interests for fire protection is a formidable one. They are entitled to all the concessions and privileges granted other cities with proportionate safeguards against fire hazards.

As regards city and state regulations, they have long been in need of revision. In Atlanta and Georgia business men and home-owners generally require education in the matter of avoiding fires, and the jurisdiction of the city and state should be made more clean-cut and comprehensive. The labor and expense of such an investigation would be more than compensated by its resultant advantages. If present rates and conditions are equitable, that fact should be established. If they are neither, there should be conservative readjustment.

LOST!--ONE CIPRIANO CASTRO.

Where is the gad-fly of South America, one Cipriano Castro, erstwhile dictator of Venuezuela, whom his compatriots finally suppressed as a common nuisance and sent sailing away to Europe, that haven of all the ancient and pestiferous tribe of Latin-American trouble-makers?

The question threatens to become as much an international mystery as the uncertainty regarding who struck Billy Patterson, the particular parties who blew up the Maine or as to who and why was the "Man With the Iron Mask."

The earlier part of last summer Castro was reported as having launched an expedition from Spain, with the avowed object of reclaiming what he regarded as his own particular property—the government and, incidentally, the treasury of Venezuela.

Chases, skirmishes, wars and rumors of wars and deportations flashed over the Caribbean sea as fast as the wireless and the cables could handle them. At one moment, the dauntless Cipriano had landed in Venezuela and put his heel on the neck of the police force of Caracas. At the next, the sanitary department of Panama had discovered him lurking on the edges of the jungle and chased him out into the Atlantic in a pair of pink pajamas and a blue night-cap.

After an interminable round of rumors and yarns, the Castro legend faded, and other and more tangible issues bid for the public interest, such as to which team would win the pennant or why King George wore red ties before breakfast.

And now Castro has actually disappeared, been swallowed up, segregated from the gaze of civilization and not even the fabled "tracer of lost persons" can locate him. We have been pluming ourselves all these years that the world is growing smaller, but so far as he is concerned it is growing larger. For somewhere in one of its nooks and corners, he is hidden away past the vigilant ken of the keenest newspaper sleuths in civilization—and the tribe is more penetrative and quicker-witted than even Sherlock Holmes.

Perhaps he is masquerading as an usher at the series of world's championship baseball games. Perhaps he is chief counsellor to the rebels in China—who can tell? Or he may be sitting quietly in a Paris cafe, sipping the frappe of the proverbial green tinge, dreaming over past glories or futilely railing against the hard fate that separates him from the now-bulging coffers of that peaceful Venezuela.

"JUST FROM GEORGIA"

A Tragic Tale of Autumn.

When the golden leaves were flying in the bracing Autumn breeze,
They heard the poet sighing: "They are cutting down the trees!
They'll be sawing them in sections against the winter days,
And in solemn, sooty chimneys they'll make the woodlands blaze."

But the "old 'un" said: "Young feller,
Jest ease yer sufferin' soul;
We've got no 'dust'
To give the trust
That owns the earth through Coal."

Again they heard him sighing—his face his sorrow tells:
"I loved to watch the cattle—to hear their clanking bells;
In the green and gracious meadows to see the sleek herds graze,
But the merciless are slaying them against the hungry days."

Said the "old 'un," then: "Young feller,
Jest give yer soul relief:
We ship our 'dust'
To no blamed trust
That owns the earth through Beef!"

A Rainy Day Reverie.

Single file or double, world's a scene of trouble: You reckon that the stormy time will pass? (Johnny, shut that door there! How the wind does roar there! Think that that hot water'll crack the glass?) Joy, they say's "a bubble;" man was born to trouble, oftentimes he's feeling mighty low. Without a thing to cheer up his spirits, can he bear up? (That's the best "joy-ride" decanter that I know!) But thank the Lord we're living—Providence forgiving, and to this "spirit-lifter" there's some class. Sometimes we must be merry. (Old chap, put in a cherry, to crimson in the bottom of the glass!)

When they say: "Dig up the dollars, if to Washington you'd roam,"
"The fire's out," I tell 'em, "and I'll warm my hands at home;
I've capital in Conscience—beats office any day;
I'll grow up with the country in a simple sort of way."

"The Sunshine Mills."

The Bentztown Bard, in the fine clover country, is singing of "The Sunshine Mills of Dixie:"

"The sunshine mills of Dixie are grinding day by day
The golden dreams of autumn where the ghosts of April play.

They grind the corn in season,
And grind the wheat when ripe,
But Dixie grinds the sunshine
All the time to Dixie's pipe."

Had Barricaded Himself in His House.

McDonough, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Al Smith, colored, was shot and instantly killed by Deputy Sheriff R. A. Payne Thursday morning.

The officer had a warrant for the negro for selling liquor, and when the officer went to the negro's home to arrest him, he barricaded himself behind the door and Bailiff McGarity took a shotgun from him; then he attempted to draw a pistol, and he was shot at three times. One shot penertated the right temple. He had a quantity of liquor on hand and two pistols on his person.

HODGES FOUND GUILTY OF FORGERY CHARGE

Thomasville, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—The case of the Citizens' Banking and Trust Company, of this city, against C. R. Hodges, of Malvern, Ala., for forgery, was tried in the superior court here today, and Hodges was found guilty, the jury being out only about ten minutes.

Dr. J. T. Culpepper, president of the Citizens' bank, who was the principal witness against Hodges, swore that on October 4 Hodges came into his bank and said that he was Mr. Garner, of the firm of Garner & Co., doing business at Malvern, a small town near Dothan, Ala., and cashed a draft for $725. The draft, with the telegram attached, was sent to the bank at Dothan, and it was returned, with the statement that the signature was a forgery.

In the meantime Hodges had gone to Savannah, from whence he wrote to his wife at Malvern to send him some money. Mr. Garner, who is postmaster at Malvern, saw the letter, and recognized the writing on it as the same as that signed to the draft. Hodges' wife got a postoffice order for the money to be sent him at Savannah, and it was when getting the money for the order in Savannah that Hodges was arrested there.

Hodges denied that he was in Thomasville on the date of the transaction, or that he had anything to do with it.

LESS THAN ONE-THIRD QUALIFIED VOTERS TOOK PART IN PRIMARY

The city executive committee met yesterday at noon in the council chamber and consolidated the vote of Thursday's primary.

The figures given by The Constitution were found to be correct, and the committee announced the following vote, where there had been contests:

For general manager of the waterworks, W. Zode Smith, 3,680; Park Woodward, 1,347; Smith's majority, 2,333.

For councilman first ward, A. H. Baskin, 238; A. M. Corrie, 158; Baskin's majority, 80

For councilman third ward, O. H. Hall, 897; I. C. Clark, 121; Hall's majority, 776.

For councilman tenth ward, C. C. Mason, 190; R. E. Church, 53; Mason's majority, 137.

It was found, in canvassing the vote for members of the city executive committee in the seventh ward that the following four candidates had been elected: L. Z. Rosser, Jr., Craig Cofield, C. C. Woodall and Paul Toland.

As stated in The Constitution Friday, it was found that only 4,192 votes had been polled out of the total registration of 13,040. The committee accounted for this small vote because of the recent charter election and the few number of contests.

The new city executive committee, which has been elected for two years, will meet at an early date and elect a chairman.

SCOUT CAR WILL MAKE TRIP FROM CAPITAL TO CAPITAL

A scouting party with possibly two cars, will leave Atlanta Monday morning to make a trip over the Capital to Capital Highway, incident to the coming American road congress of the American Association for Highway Improvement and affiliated organizations to be held in Richmond, Va., November 20-23, inclusive.

This trip is being promoted by the Touring Club of America, several of whose officials are in the city, and will be in the party making the tour from Atlanta to Richmond. These include F. H. Elliott, secretary of the club, Colonel Henry McNair, editor of the Blue Book, and Dallas D. Armstrong, southern vice president. Some newspaper men will be asked to join the party, and it may be that the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce will send a representative.

The route to be followed is from Atlanta to Augusta, along the Georgia railroad; thence to Columbia, S. C., through Aiken and other well known Carolina resorts; to Raleigh N. C., and then to Richmond, the route being projected from Washington, the national capital, through the capitals of the various southeastern states through which it passes.

The Touring Club of America is much interested in the development of this route, and will make the road readings upon it in both directions for early publication for the benefit of tourists.

Secretary Tillott Talks.

Mr. Elliott believes this route will be the first one really developed, and will soon be the best road that can be had between eastern points and the south.

"We are anxious to get a good, comfortable road for tourists between the east and the south," said Mr. Elliott.

"We have plenty of routes for tourists throughout the north and east, but many of them have thoroughly covered these and want something else—they want to come south.

"With a good road from the east into the south, one that passes through cities of interest, as the Capital to Capital route will do, there is no question but that you would have thousands of tourists coming from the north and east into Georgia every year.

"I believe the development of this highway will give you something like 3,000 cars a year to begin with, and if conditions are right, the number will constantly grow.

"We are going to send our routing cars into this territory very soon now, and make road readings on all available routes for tourists in this section. Northern and eastern tourists are anxious to come into the south, and will do it just as soon as they can get the right kind of roads.

"I am told you have very good roads in Georgia, but the links between here and the east are not all connected. We want good roads all the way, and the development has begun which I am confident will mean early realization."

Mr. Elliott looks for splendid results from the meeting of the road congress in Richmond. Practically every state in the country will be represented, and steps will be taken to get the good roads movement well under way in all of them.

CIGARETTES AND LIQUOR ENEMY OF REPORTER, SAYS ONE VICTIM

"Judge, it's cigarettes that start most men on the path of drunkenness. That's what started me, and now I am here, confessedly a forger, in spite of the fact that I have in time held some of the highest positions in the newspaper world of Washington, Philadelphia and New York."

A. P. Walmesley, a man of high connections in other states, pleaded guilty to the charge of forgery yesterday morning and was given six months in the Atlanta jail, where, Judge Roan expressed the hope he would be able to fight and win his battle against liquor, for it was to this he attributed his downfall.

A crowd was in the court room when Walmesley was called upon to state his side of the case. This crown, constantly augmented by new arrivals, pressed forward to the rail unchecked by the court or bailiff, all lost in the flow of eloquence from the prisoner at the bar, who, in spite of his position, delivered a lecture on cigarettes and whisky instead of using the time allotted him in making a defense.

Probably never before in the history of the criminal court of Fulton county has there been such a scene. A man of much travel and newspaper experience, able to speak in an eloquent and convincing manner, was inspired by his own case to use bitter invective against what he called one of the greatest evils of modern times.

"I am a dipsomaniac," he informed the judge when he was called upon. "Normally I am, and always have been, as honest as any of my fellow men and in all my career as a newspaper man in the large eastern cities I have never been charged with a crime. Liquor is the cause of my appearance in this court today. Cigarettes were the start of liquor.

"When I get to a certain point while intoxicated I lose my normal mind. My subconscious self has control. That subconscious ego is criminal I well know, yet it is not I, but liquor, that inspires it. I have fought against it, have taken the Keely cure, have managed to resist for one period of three years, yet at last the demon rum conquers me and I fall.

"Cigarettes cause more young men to start drinking than anything else. They are the greatest evil extant today."

"Wait a minute!" Judge Roan extended his hand. "Is there a reporter in the court room?" he called. The answer was affirmative. "Ask him to come forward," he requested. The reporter "came forward."

"Young man, I hope you will consider this man's story and spread it over the state. The lesson is one that is needed everywhere. This is a practical demonstration of the cigarette evil. Take down this man's words." He turned to the prisoner. "You may continue."

Walmesley resumed, seemingly unmoved by the interruption. "It is exhilarating to smoke a cigarette. It is still more so to smoke several. But when the reaction comes, when the exhilaration has passed away, then is the most dangerous time, for it is then that the desire for drink comes. That is the way most boys start."

Continuing in this line he told of the night the forgery was committed. How some man, knowing his weakness after a single drink, tempted him and he fell, committing the crime after he was under the influence of alcohol, unknowing. How he had fought time and time again to quit the habit entirely. How it proved impossible—he told all, then ended with a plea to the judge to send him somewhere that he would be entirely segregated and allowed to make one more stand against his enemy.

The judge listened intently, and when his talk was done turned to the audience and remarked: "Every word he has said about cigarettes and whisky is the God's truth. He knows."

Turning to Walmesley, Judge Roan told him that another chance would be given him, after that all depended upon his endeavor to remain straight. "I will give you six months in the Tower. I hope when your time expires you will be able to come forth cured and once more take the high stand among men that your intellect deserves."

The sentenced and the sentencer shook hands, the prisoner left the room, and a buzz of comment rose all over the big hall. The case was finished.

CANDIDATES TO SPEAK AT FAIR IN QUITMAN

Quitman, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) The attendance at the Brooks county fair Thursday greatly exceeded the record of the second day last year.

SECURING INFORMATION FOR LAKES-GULF HIGHWAY

Houston County Will Strive to Have Best Roads of the Entire Route.

Perry, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Postmaster L. E. Boughton was the recipient last week of a communication from South Yarmouth, Mass., stating that Perry is on the proposed route of the Great Lakes-Gulf national highway from Chicago to Apalachicola, Fla. The communication asked for information to aid in the establishment of the route.

Mr. Boughton promptly furnished the information requested. With the establishment of this route, Perry will be on two of the great national highways. The Glidden tourists who passed over The Journal-Herald highway this week were more than pleased with the road being built, stating it was the best they had passed over since leaving New York.

The county officials in charge of building roads are endeavoring to have the section of highway that passes through Houston, when completed, to not be surpassed in superiority by any other section in the state.

Boyle, of the interstate commerce commission Friday to charge discrimination by railroads against southern industries, and thestify in the case of the Massee & Felton Lumber Company v. the Southern Railway and others.

The delegation of lumber men allege that unjust rates are charged by the Southern and other railroads on plate glass shipped from Pittsburg into the south in carload lots, and that on account of this, and the price of the product, dealers of this section are unable to profit on their sales.

The railroads implicated in the investigation were represented by A. P. Calloway, and the complainants by W. A. Wimbish.

Among those who testfied were M. H. Massee, of Macon; W. M. Otis, of Columbia, S. C.; W. B. Disbro and W. R. Willingham, of Atlanta.

JONESBORO MEET FOR BROWN TODAY

Postponed Yesterday on Account of Weather.

Russell and Pope Brown Managers Approve Rules Adopted by State Committee—Encouraging Reports at Joe Brown Headquarters.

The meeting in the interest of former Governor Joseph M. Brown which was to have been held at Jonesboro yesterday was postponed until today on account of the inclement weather.

It will take place this afternoon, and will be addressed by J. R. Smith, Governor Brown's campaign manager, who will leave with a party of local Brown men on the train leaving for Jonesboro at about 12:30 this afternoon.

Special efforts have been made to have a large crowd present to hear Mr. Smith. It will be the first campaign address for Governor Brown, though a squad of speakers will take the stump within the next few days.

The following was given out at Governor Brown's headquarters:

"Editor A. S. Hardy, of Gainesville, stated yesterday that Hall county would be in the Joe Brown column. Preliminary work is now in progress looking to the organization of ex-Governor Brown's friends, and most gratifying reports have been received from all sections of Hall county.

"Dr. William Bradford, of Cedartown, was among the visitors at the Joseh M. Brown headquarters. Dr. Bradford is a leading citizen of Polk county and in close touch with political conditions in his county. His estimate that Polk would again roll up a big majority for 'Little Joe' was among the very many encouraging reports received yesterday at the Joseph M. Brown headquarters.

"Senator W. S. Mann, of McRae, Ga., was a visitor at the Joseph M. Brown headquarters, bringing most encouraging reports from Telfair county. 'You may confidently count on Telfair's vote,' said the senator. 'We admire the position of "Little Joe," and will register our indorsement at the ballot box.'"

"I am satisfied with the action of the executive committee," said Judge Richard B. Russell.

"So are we," said Volney Williams, campaign manager for Colonel Pope Brown. Colonel Brown was out of the city yesterday and no direct expression from him was obtained.

"I offered no suggestions to the committee," said Judge Russell, "and, being a democrat, I will abide by the committee's action in every particular."

James B. Nevin, campaign manager for Judge Russell, said: "The executive committee is the doctor. Whatever medicine the doctor prescribes I will take without objection. That is all I have had to say all the time, and that is all I have to say now."

"The plan the committee has put forward seems to me to be as good as any that could be suggested," said Voiney Williams. "The county unit feature has its disadvantages in that the liquor people can go into some of the smaller counties where the vote is close and buy up enough to carry the county. It has its advantages, however, from the fact that the liquor pluralities in some of the big counties will not be able to overcome the prohibition vote in the smaller counties, as it would under the popular vote plan."

The campaign for governor promises to be much more vigorous next week than it has been up to the present. Judge Russell, who has been comparatively inactive this week on account of a session of the court of appeals, will start another whirlwind campaign next week and will cover a large section of territory before the week ends. Judge Russell will probably announce his speaking engagements Sunday morning.

Colonel Pope Brown will also whoop up several sections of the state next week with a number of speeches, and will be aided by Dupont Guerry, of Macon, and Hooper Alexander, of DeKalb, both of whom will make speeches during the coming week.

WILL CELEBRATE BIRTH OF PROTESTANT CHURCH

Special Services at the English Lutheran Church Next Sunday.

On Sunday, at the English Lutheran church, the 394th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation will be celebrated. The theme announced for the services of the day is "The Living Church," the special subject for the morning being "The Church the Pillar and Ground of the Truth," and at night "True Discipleship."

The birthday of protestantism that is thus being commemorated carried back to October 31, 1517, when the monk of Whittenberg nailed the ninety-five theses to the door of the castle church.

An appropriate feature of the observance on Sunday will be the congregational singing of the reformation battle hymn, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," by Martin Luther. Sunday week will mark the beginning of a series of special services on reformation theme to be conducted by Rev. E. H. Copenhaver, of Birmingham.

SHERIFF GETS BLACK SLAYER

Negro Who Caused the Jakin Trouble Is Jailed by Sheriff Emanuel.

Bainbridge, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Sheriff Emanuel, of Decatur county, captured Charlie West, the negro charged with the murder of Marshal Newberry, of Jakin, in Charleston, and brought him to Bainbridge today, where he was turned over to the sheriff of Early county and taken to Blakely jail. The negro admits the killing, but contends that it was in self-defense.

Marshal Newberry was murdered by West last July, which resulted in mob rule in the town of Jakin for several days, the burning of negro lodges and the killing of several negroes. West made good his escape, and has been at large until Sheriff Emanuel, who has been industriously working on the case, finally located him in Charleston and brought him back. A large reward was offered for the arrest.

MURDER VICTIM A GEORGIA MAN

John Daniels, of LaGrange, Killed Near Tampa.

Alleged Fugitive From Justice Had Throat Slashed by Unknown in Isolated Spot to Which He Had Fled—Suicide Theory Scouted.

Tampa, Fla., October 27.—(Special.) That the murder of John Daniels, alias C. W. Morris, formerly of LaGrange, Ga., will never be apprehended is the belief of the officers here and the two suspects arrested have been released.

The clue that he was here under an assumed name came from a letter from his daughter that was mailed from LaGrange. The remains were shipped to his old home this morning, accompanied by James Daniels, brother, and D. V. Stevens, of that place.

It was stated that Daniels was a fugitive from justice, his 13-year-old niece having run away to get married, and in trying to recover her there was a gun fight, in which the child of one of his enemies was killed. He came to Six-Mile creek, an isolated spot near here. The feud theory is advanced. When found his throat was slashed three times by a razor, which was in his hand, and his head was resting on a Bible. The position of the body scouted a suicide theory. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity.

Mr. Hall was in Atlanta this week engaged in the Hanson will case, and in discussing the gubernatorial situation he said:

"So far there has been very little enthusiasm manifested in the gubernatorial race in Bibb county. The thing doesn't seem to be stirred up very much at present.

"However, judging from the surface indications and by the past, I am of the opinion that former Governor Brown will have little difficulty in carrying my county. The sentiment there for him is strong."

The mantels were banked with ferns, out of which rose clusters of the yellow flowers, and the conservatory was made into a Japanese garden, with Japanese shrubs and chrysanthemums.

In the dining room, where delicious refreshments were served, the table, covered with a lace cloth, had as its centerpiece a long rustic basket filled with yellow chrysanthemums and ferns, and the silver candlesticks had yellow shades. "We Don't Want Old Women"

"Yes, women are all right in business, bright, intelligent, quick to grasp ideas and they handle their work quicker than the ordinary man; but the trouble is they don't last long enough, 35 or 40 years is the average limit, some few go a year or so longer, but not many."

"How's that? Too many marry?"

"Marry? No! Their hair turns gray, and we don't want old women. Why, if I put old gray-headed women behind my counters the store'd go bankrupt the first year."

We don't want old women! We hear it in almost every line of business. When a woman's hair turns gray we expect her to step back from the lime light. Active and abreast of the times she may be, with a wide experience, but—she has grown old and gray headed. Fortunate indeed is the woman whose hair retains its color through her forties. Why, at 50 a man's in his prime of his life!

And to the woman whose hair begins to fade, maybe as soon as 25 or 30, we say, dye it. Yes, but—don't injure it. Very few of the hair stains are absolutely pure and harmless, so be careful. There are some reliable preparations, and Mme. Robinnaire's is one. This preparation is made here in Atlanta, in our own laboratory, and we guarantee it to be pure and positively non-injurious to either hair or scalp, and two or three applications a year will be sufficient to keep your hair in a good natural color. It also makes the hair soft and keeps it is fine condition, and no one can detect that a hair stain has been used. In fact, it is more of a natural restorative than a dye, and no woman need hesitate to use it, because we guarantee it, and our guarantee has never yet failed.

No woman need have gray hair undesired. But don't pull out the white hairs, because two white hairs will grow in immediately for every one you pull out; and don't let them spread all over your head. Use Mme. Robinnaire's Hair Dye at once and don't let people call you old. It is prepared for light, medium and dark brown and black hair. Trial size 25c; large size 75c. Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta.

TURNED BLIND ALMOST FELL

Mrs. Hansen Says at First Her Case Seemed Hopeless, But She Finally Won Out.

Mobile, Ala.—"For seven years," says Mrs. Sigurd Hansen, of this city, "I suffered with womanly troubles, and, at last, was operated on.

I felt better for a time, but soon I had the same trouble as before.

I had dizzy spells, and would turn blind and almost fall over. I had pains in my back and side, and was not able to work.

Half the time I could not eat any breakfast, and I always felt weak and had a headache.

One day my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, and I tried it. I felt better, so I took some more.

Now, I am well and feel fine. My doctor says I am looking better than ever. I have a good appetite and sleep well.

It is all due to Cardui. I only wish every suffering woman would try it. They would soon feel as good as I do."

You may be sure when Cardui will relieve and cure such a serious case as that of Mrs. Hansen, that it will much more quickly and certainly help those women who have no serious symptoms, but are just weak and ailing.

Are you?

Try it.

C. & R. RAILROAD NOW FINANCED

Line Will Be Great Benefit to North Georgia

Local Parties Will Start Work of Clearing This Week—The Main Stem Will Run From Gainesville Through Concord and Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) President McCombs, of the Bryd-Matthews Investment Company, before leaving for his home in St. Louis, Mo., announced that the proposed Gainesville and Robertstown railway had been financed and would be built. Major Brooks, the engineer in charge, has let the clearing to parties living in the mountains who have ordered their tools and will begin work this week. The major expressed a hope to have all the other work let and the contracts signed up within the coming two weeks. This is most welcome news to the people who have waited long for railroad facilities. Confidence is felt in the promoters who have been modest and charitable in their promises and have kept every engagement.

The construction of the road and the establishment of the wood-working plants to utilize the vast forests of white pine, hemlock, poplar and oaks will work a revolution in the economic and social life of this part of northern Georgia. The increased yield from the gold mines will help the boom along.

The main stem of the proposed road, which is to be standard, is 35 miles long and runs from Gainesville northward, through Concord, and Cleveland, well up into the Blue range. The territory traversed is a high plateau rising on its northern limit to the very crest of the range. The top of the Lovely Tray mountain is nearly a mile above sea level, and tumbled about everywhere are baby mountains. In the recesses of the mountains are waterfalls and cascades from one to six hundred feet high, many of exquisite charm and all of economic value.

The waters of the Chattahoochee, Sautee and Tesnatee rivers and Dukes and Town creeks are pure, clear and soft.

In this long hidden region now to become known and accessible by reason of the new railroad, the rigors of winter are melted in the breath of the gulf streams, and only the exhilarating tonic remains, and the high altitude means cool summers and health-giving air. In a word, the climate is ideal and in keeping with the beauty of this wonderland.

When the road is completed next summer White county will invite the world to visit and many will remain.

GEORGIA G. O. P. ALL FOR BILL TAFT

Walter Johnson Says La Follette Boom Will Amount to Nothing Here.

According to Walter Johnson, chairman of the state republican committee, President Taft will be nominated and re-elected for the presidency in 1912, and Robert M. La Folette hasn't a chance.

Mr. Johnson said, also, that the republicans of Georgia would begin activities during the coming month of December, when they would plan for the state republican convention to be held some time in 1912 in Atlanta.

"At present," he said, "the republican party in Georgia, although not completely idle, isn't particularly busy. We will begin active work between Christmas and New Year's day."

When asked in regard to the report that the negro vote of Georgia would be disfranchised, Mr. Johnson said there was nothing to it, and that it was absolutely groundless.

Mr. Johnson was enthusiastic because of the prospects for his party, declaring them to be bright. He was also convinced that Taft would be nominated and elected by an overwhelming majority, defeating any candidate that would be placed in the field.

"In regard to La Follette," said Mr. Johnson, "I don't believe him to have a chance. Taft is the logical man, and the man for the betterment of the nation; is the man we intend to install in office. His administration has been satisfactory, and if that be the case, why turn the office over to another, when it is now in successful hands. I advocate maintaining the power asset while it is to be had. Therefore, considering the majority of the people to be of the same belief as I, I am assured of Mr. Taft's re-election."

FISHER WATCHES CHILDREN OF PEN

Athens, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) Bud Fisher, cartoonist, who created "Mutt and Jeff," and Frank Tannehill, Jr., who dramatized the characters into a production for musical comedy, saw the presentation of "Mutt and Jeff" at the Colonial here.

Fisher and the author both bought tickets and went along in as other patrons of the shows. But they soon went behind the curtain and there was some salty criticism, it is said, as to the manner of the presentation, especially the chorus work. Fisher and Tannehill came here at the request of Gus Hill, owner of the show, to inspect it with a view to working it over. While here they were entertained at the Elks home.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

At the THEATRES

Jefferson De Angelis.

(At the Atlanta.)

The suggestion of Gilbert and Sullivan ran rampant in the "Ladies' Lion," produced by Jefferson de Angelis at the Atlanta theater last night. Mr. De Angelis is author of the musical comedy. He is a comedian of vast experience and of the highest order, and he works hard to make the "Ladies' Lion" a success.

But Mr. De Angelis is, after all, a student of Gilbert and Sullivan, and Gilbert and Sullivan are as prominent in the "Ladies' Lion" as the Chinese revolutionists are in the Chinese uprising.

And Mr. De Angelis satisfies a popular appeal when he brings forward Gilbert and Sullivan product. The audience at the Atlanta applauded the Gilbert and Sullivan comedy, though Mr. De Angelis and his associates played Ko Ko, Sir Joseph Porter, Ralphstraw, Dick Deadeye and all the others we love. The applause was heartfelt.

It is not necessary to dilate on the virtues or the faults of the performance. Suffice it to say that Gilbert and Sullivan dialogue was always present and when Gilbert and Sullivan is present all is well.

In addition to Mr. De Angelis, Mrs. Morgan Williams played a character part effectively, while Annabelle Whitford was as beautiful as she was when she was the Gibson girl and she sang in good voice.

"Mutt and Jeff."

(At the Grand.)

Mutt and Jeff, the farcical musical comedy, based upon the cartoons of Bud Fisher, opened an engagement of two nights and a matinee at the Grand last evening before a large audience.

For two acts the work of these two cartoon workers was uproariously received. The audience seemed to be as glad to see them as readers are to open the pages of The Constitution and turn to the want column page, morning by morning, to enjoy their newest stunts.

In the third act there came a change, however. It wasn't the fault of Jeff, and Mutt was perfectly reasonable, too, but the stage manager took a hand in the production, and the folks in front didn't seem to appreciate it.

The change came after the appearance of Miss Marolita Stetson, who opened the third act with a Spanish dance. It caught the house and everybody wanted it repeated. She was applauded and applauded until finally she came out and bowed a couple of times.

A dance and not bows were wanted, however, and the applause kept up while the action of the play continued on the stage regardless of the expression from the spectators.

Miss Stetson started back once, only to be yanked behind the scenes by the stage manager of the show. The result was there was so much noise in the third act, from applause, that but little of the dialogue was heard.

Mutt and Jeff, as played by Hal Hoyt and George Beach, got the glad hand at all times. Their work was very clever and their every appearance was greeted with laughter.

Some tuneful music helps along a fairly clever plot, but the songs are not well rendered. The costumes, however, are bright and new, and the scenic effects excellent, but the chorus would never take any prizes in a beauty show, for either face or figure. Summed up, the work of Jeff and Mutt and the dancing of Miss Stetson were the only features.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Matinee and night performances at the Forsyth today conclude the engagements of the excellent stars that have so thoroughly entertained the theater-goers this week. The Colonial Septette is one of the classiest musical novelties that has been presented to a local gathering and there has been nothing more sensational than the daring work of the Aurora Troupe.

Already there is great interest in the booking for the coming week. It is said that the best is superior in quality to any that has been offered. There are seven star acts. The star feature will be Toots Paka, the famous Hawaiin dancer with her own troupe of native instrumentalists and singers. Another great act will be the Morati Opera Company, in their novelty presentation of "The Mardi Grass in Paris." Frank Milton and the DeLong Sisters ahe going to be welcome features, as will cleever Marie Fenton, and it is assured that Bert Fitzgibbon will be a royal favorite.

"The Winning Widow."

(At the Lyric.)

If you want to enjoy a hearty laugh, or hear a good song, or prefer to witness a pleasing spectacle the new musical comedy, "The Winning Widow" at the Lyric today, matinee and night, will satisfy the desire. "The Winning Widow" has been in Atlanta all week playing to capacity houses, at almost every performance at the ever popular Lyric, and this delightful musical hit could stay here for several weeks and still be welcome. The play is full of action from the first curtain to the last, and it is as cleverly staged as the ingenuity of the master producers' mind could devise. "Song Hits" number twenty, a few of them includes "The Light That Lies In Woman's Eyes," "Swim, Swim, Swim," "I Love You," "What Would We Do Without the Moon," "There's Something Awfully Cute About a Soldier," etc. The company is headed by the young and pretty prima donna Florence May, and the chief fun-makers are Joe M. Fields and George S. Scanlon.

Anna Held.

(At the Atlanta.)

Seats are now selling with a rush at the Atlanta for the engagement of Anna Held in the stupendous production, "Miss Innocence" in which she will be seen at the new playhouse for three nights and a matinee opening Monday night. Miss Held has not been to Atlanta for several years and she is due to be received with open arms and enthusiasm. She is bringing the largest company ever seen on the road and a musical entertainment astounding in its greatness and importance. Her reception in Atlanta is certain to be as inspiring as the big show she is bringing and that means capacity crowds will pack the Atlanta. Miss Held is surrounded by a company of 125, including such famous fun-makers as Harry Watson, for five years with the "Follies;" Ernest Lambart, a noted English comedian, and others of like calibes with the largest and most handsome chorus in the world.

Eva Tanguay.

(At the Atlanta.)

Following the engagement of Anna Held the Atlanta will offer the most sensational attraction of the year, Eva Tanguay in "Little Miss Fix-It." This play is a musical comedy which ran the entire summer in Chicago. Aside from its own attractiveness Miss Tanguay will present her entire vaudeville act for which she receives $3,500 per week. She will sing all her noted songs, including "I Don't Care," which is known from one part of the world to another. Miss Tanguay is the most cyclonic of all comediennes and is the greatest drawing card in the vaudeville world today. She takes the place of Nora Bayes in "Little Miss Fix-It," and is sure of a reception which will be astounding. She comes Thursday, Friday and Saturday with a Saturday matinee. Seats for her stay go on sale this morning.

"Fantasma."

(At the Lyric.)

The ever-popular "Fantasma," that arch-delight of the Hanlons, will be the attraction at the Lyric theater next week. In its new garb it is to be presented on a more elaborate and splendid scale than ever before and it is promised that this glorious combination of fun pageant, illusion and extravaganza will be more gorgeous and stupendous than ever before. Every effort has been made by the management to make this year's "Fantasma" the most attractive amusement combination on the road and from advices which have come from towns where it has already been seen it is safe to predict that there will be no disappointment when this attraction arrives here.

COBB SUMMARIZES WORLD'S SERIES

Picks Out Good and Bad Points in Teams.

Wonderful Offense of Athletics Is Responsible for Victory. Tribute Paid Mathewson. Bender and Davis Praised. Play of Others Analyzed.

By TY COBB

(Champion batsman of the world, and the greatest living baseball player. Copyright, 1911, The Press Company. Written exclusively for The Constitution.)

Philadelphia, Pa., October 27.—(Special.)—The Athletics, representatives of the American League, had the superior team in the world's series of 1911. That is the reason they defeated the National League champions, the New York Giants, and are for second time world's baseball champions.

As I predicted before the series, the Giants were unable to overcome the wonderful offensive power of the Athletics. Base running is a big asset to a ball club, but as I said, you have to get on the sacks to steal or get around in any way. Therefore, the Giants' base running profited them little during the series.

I also said that pitching would decide the series, and so it proved. Had Mathewson, the one hope of Manager McGraw, been able to keep up the jam-up brand of twirling he showed on the first day in New York, the Giants might have had a chance. But the strain was too much for "Matty." The Athletics discovered the secret of his power, and he fell down.

Pays Matty Tribute.

But I believed and said that the strain had been too much for Mathewson. Had he been able to rest for six days he might have been able to go back and duplicate. But with a rest of only three days he did not have sufficient chance to recuperate. He could not get the proper "stuff" on the ball, and was easy prey for the slugging Athletics.

To Bender, for the Athletics, belongs the pitching honors for the 1911 series. I say that because it was the "Chief" who stepped into the breach on Thursday and won the deciding game—the one which meant so much to the two teams.

Had Bender not won Thursday's game I do not care to say much about what might have happened. Only this—Manager Mack had only Plank, Krause, Morgan and two recruits to send in against the Giants in a deciding game, had it been necessary. All are good pitchers, but I doubt whether they would have gone to the mound with the confidence, the craftiness displayed by that stoical twirler, Bender.

Bender should have won the opening game. The "breaks" were against him. He just happened to give Meyers and Devore the kind of balls which they like, and the resultant pair of doubles did the rest. An error gave the Giants the other run.

Confidence in Bender.

The Athletics did not expect Bender to pitch Thursday. They believed he would wait another day, and, if necessary, twirl the seventh contest if one were necessary. But the Indian warmed up, found that he had the "stuff" and went to Manager Mack, saying: "I'm right; I'll pitch today."

Manager Mack and his men showed how much confidence they have in Bender by taking his word for it and pinning their faith in him to end the series then and there. Then he did it.

Eddie Plank pitched beautiful ball in the second game, and deserved the victory. I never saw the nervous southpaw more steady than he was that day. He had everything, and when his cross-fire is working and his support is good he's about as classy as they come. Plank was unfortunate in that he went to the rescue of Coombs in New York when the Giants were filled with that winning spirit, that determination which would not down.

Jack Coombs showed his 1910 form when he won the third game in New York, and had he not strained his leg I believe he would have decided the series on Wednesday.

Coombs states that he injured his leg during the first game he pitched in New York, and the one he won. Now, if anybody wants to find out just what a handicap Jacy was laboring under, try to put all your strength into pitching a ball some time when you have a bad leg. Particularly in pitching a man has to put all his weight on his leg to poise for the throw.

Of the New York pitchers Crandall was the only one who seemed to be able to fool the Athletic batsmen, and had he started a game I believe they would have discovered how to hit him. Marquard pitched good ball in his first attempt, when he was opposed to Plank, but after that "Rube" did not show any of the class which made him one of the leaders in the National League during the season.

Athletics' Weakness.

One of the big mistakes of the series, in my opinion, was the failure of the New York pitchers to discover the one great weakness of the Athletics. Since the world's championship for 1911 is decided, I am free to say that I am certain they would not have been so successful against a slow ball pitcher. Those of you who saw the series and who happen to see this, may remember how several Athletic hitters swung wildly, some throwing their bats, when hitting at slow balls. Don't you remember how Crandall was very effective during the short time he pitched?

"Matty's" fadaway, which is slower than the rest of his assortment, had the American Leaguers guessing. I don't consider the "fallaway" the real reason. It was the change of speed which did the trick.

I want to pay a tribute to that grand veteran first sacker, Captain Harry Davis, of the Athletics, in saying without hesitation that he was the one big hero of the 1911 series. Having been on the bench almost continually during the league season, with no chance to keep in touch with ing, Davis stepped into the breacha nd ing. Davis stepped into tre breach and saved the Mackmen. His fielding during the series was not only perfect, but wonderful. He was one of the few who stood up to the plate and looked over what a pitcher had with confidence and then hit the ball hard. His batting was most timely.

At some time during the series, every one of the Athletics delivered a hit in a time of need. There was not a man on the team who could be said to be a failure. Of course the laurels go to Frank Baker, that "game-breaker," that home-run wonder.

Giants Had Jump.

Throughout the series the Giants had the jump on the Athletics most of the time. That is, New Yorkers "come from behind" and win out. That "come from behind" and win out. That shows the true mettle of a team and the Athletics should be proud of such a record. It seemed that they did not begin to fight until they were awakened by the runs scored by the Giants. Then they piled in and fought with a look on their faces which showed their determination.

In conclusion, let me say that the Athletics deserved to win the 1911 series. In only one game did New York show superiority, that being the one played Wednesday in New York, and I must say that in the ninth and tenth innings of that contest the Giants showed that they could fight to a finish.

The 1911 series, as I predicted, was wonderful offensive power against aggresiveness. The sluggers won it, as they deserved. Nobody has any excuses to offer. There are no chances for "might have beens." The better team won the world's championship of 1911.

TECH SCRUBS PLAY STONE MOUNTAIN

Before and between the halves of the Tech-Alabama game this afternoon at Ponce de Leon park, the Tech scrubs and the Stone Mountain eleven will line up in battle array.

This game should attract considerable interest, and all those who witness it will have the opportunity of seeing an exhibition of speed as exhibited by Stone Mountain against weight as carried by the Tech scrubs.

The outcome of the game is doubtful, Stone Mountain having their usually strong team.

B. H. S. v. Inman Park.

By Hal Reynolds.

B. H. S. will line up against Inman Park this afternoon, at Piedmont park, in what promises to be a stubbornly-fought game. B. H. S. has been practicing hard since her defeat at the hands of G. M. A., and will enter the game confident. B. H. S.'s probable line-up will be: Siler, right end; LeConte, right tackle; Holtzendorff, left guard; Risser, center; Folsome, left guard; Snyder, left tackle; Wright, left end; Knox, quarterback; Thompson, right halfback; Ingram, left halfback; Fox, fullback. McDougal, High School's left halfback, will not be in the game, on account of a split finger.

GEORGIA MEETS MERCER ELEVEN

Georgia and Mercer, those old-time rivals of gridiron and diamond, will line up in battle array on the gridiron at Athens this afternoon in what promises to be a good game, with the Athens contingent, of course, ruling as the favorite by several touchdowns.

This game will give a line on the strength of the Tech and Georgia teams. In fact, so will the Tech-Alabama game. Georgia has played Alabama and Mercer has played Tech. The results of the two games will furnish some good comparative dope.

The officials in the game will be Streit, of Auburn, referee; Turner, of Locust Grove, umpire, and Lawrence, field judge. The probable line-up of the two teams is as follows:

MERCER.	Positions.	GEORGIA.
Stribling, Phelps	Left End	Parrish
Kelly	Left Tackle	Maddox
Hugely, Conger	Left Guard	Peacock
Grice	Center	Delaprierre

H. DAVIS SIGNS TO MANAGE NAPS

Cleveland, Ohio, October 27.—Harry H. Davis, first baseman of the world's champion Athletics, today signed a contract to manage the Cleveland team of the American League in 1912.

It is understood that Davis will have entire control of the club, including the purchase and trading of players.

Davis succeeds George Stovall as manager of the team. The latter probably will be traded or sold to some other club.

CONDUCTOR SHOT AFTER QUARREL

His Assailant Accidentally Wounds Self on the Third Shot.

George T. Kendley, of 635 Washton street, a conductor on an interurban car line, was shot twice yesterday afternoon about 4:15 o'clock, following a quarrel with two men who had approached him in front of the car barn on Walton street. Neither wound is dangerous, both shots taking effect in the left arm.

A third shot from his assailants' pistol proved a boomerang, striking J. F. Jordan, who was doing the shooting. Then the two men took to their heels, Jordan being overtaken on aMrietta street, while W. F. Lotz was arrested some hours later. Jordan's wound is trifling.

The quarrel presents some aspects which have put the police to scratching their heads in trying to reason out Jordan and Lotz deny ever having seen Kendley before, and yet an eye-witness says that the shooting was without provocation, occurring after Jordan had used most abusive language to the conductor.

Jordan and Lotz live in the same house, 79 Trinity avenue. Jordan, when arrested, declared that he had been drinking with the other man, but that he had never seen him before.

J. M. Jeffriles, an eye-witness of the fight, was talking to Conductor Kendley when Jordan and Lotz came up. Kendley moved his car down some yards, and got out, after which the two followed him, and Jordan commenced to fire without warning. Jeffries was close by, and knocked up the pistol at the third shot, wounding Jordan in the hand. Then, with Emmett Smith, he folowed Jordan and Lotz, finally capturing the former and turning him over to Call Officers Hood and Palmer.

Jordan denied the shooting when arrested, and said that he had never carried a pistol. A weapon, which is said to be his, was found at Cone street. Lotz says that Jordan did the shooting, but only after Kendley had pulled a gun on them and cursed them.

Two Counties Go "Wet."

Portsmouth, Ohio, October 27.—By large majorities, two counties shifted from the dry column yesterday as a result of the elections held in Scioto and Lawrence counties, including the cities of Portsmouth and Ironton. Portsmouth, which three years ago gave a wet majority of 141 votes, rolled up a majority of 1,425 against the drys. In Lawrence county, twenty-eight precincts out of a total of thirty-one, gave the wets 454, and it is conceded the wet majority will be between 400 and 500.

ALABAMIANS MEET TECH MEN TODAY

First Classy Battle of Season On at Ponce de Leon

Speedy Crimson and White Warriors Reach the City and Hope to Be First Team to Score on Heisman's Yellow Jackets.

"Are you ready, Captain Patterson? Are you ready, Captain Baumgardner?" (Whistle).

These will be the welcome sounds at Ponce de Leon park this afternoon, when the elevens of the University of Alabama and the Georgia School of Technology line up in battle array at 3 o'clock.

Atlanta football fans will be treated to the first real football game of the season this afternoon. On all advance dops, the teams appear to be pretty evenly matched in playing strength, which should result in a closely fought game.

The rain of Friday may work a hardship on both teams, though the chances are that it will effect the playing of the Alabama lads more than Tech, as Coach Graves' warriors depend on their speed, and muddy grounds are not conducive to any extreme amount of speed.

Football Knowledge Is Test.

Tech will weigh more than the Alabamians, though the speed of the latter would on a dry day offset it. Therefore the question arises as to which team knows and can execute the better football.

Coach Graves is an unknown quantity in southern football circles, but the fact that the Crimson and White warriors swear by him, causes an indication of ability as a coach. As to Coach Heisman, of Tech, even his worst enemies will admit that there are very few men in the game today that know any more football or have any better faculty of teaching it to his men than he.

On a wet day, if Saturday breaks as damp as Friday and Friday night were, the game is likely to result in a lot of kicking and line bucking, with very little end running.

Both coaches and captains are expecting a hard fought game. Both teams respect the other, and when you get two teams that way and with all the advance dope pointing to an evenly matched battle, it behooves you to see that game, for it is sure to be a ripsnorter all the way.

That the Tech students expect a hard battle was evidenced yesterday noon. The entire student body held a mass meeting in the chapel, it being decided that they should march from the school to Ponce de Leon in a body, headed by their band.

The cheer leaders have been working with might and main for the past week and have their cohorts working in a smooth manner. They will make the welkin ring this afternoon.

Tickets can be found on sale at Tumlin Bros.'s stores. The prices of admission will be 50 cents to $1.

Alabama in City.

The Alabama team arrived in the city yesterday morning and are stopping at the Aragon hotel. Through the courtesy of the Atlanta Athletic Club, they were tendered the use of the big gymnasium in the afternoon to run through a bunch of signals.

The Alabama bunch do not look as light as they were at first reported, though, man to man, the Jackets should carry just a trifle edge. It was Coach Graves' intention to take the players out to Ponce de Leon for a short workout Friday afternoon, but the rain cut into that proceeding.

Innis Brown, of Vanderbilt, has been selected as referee. Sandy Beaver, of Georgia, will be umpire. Warhoo, of Carlisle, has been selected as field judge. These officials should give excellent service in the game.

The following is the probable line-up of the two teams:

TECH.	Positions.	ALABAMA.
Sanchez	Left End	H. Vandergraff
Elmer, Colley	Left Tackle	Powell
Leuhrman	Left Guard	Keller
Hutton, Loeb	Center	Barnett
Means	Right Guard	Hicks, Clorfine
Sinclair	Right Tackle	Countess
Black, Thomason	Right End	Baumgardner (Capt.)
Coleman	Quarterback	Moody
Goree	Left Halfback	McDowell
Cook	Right Halfback	Finnell, Heard
Patterson (Capt.)	Fullback	A. Vandergraff

DARROW CLASHES WITH THE COURT

McNamara's Attorney Refuses to Proceed Without Court Ruling.

Los Angeles, Cal., October 27.—The defense in the McNamara murder case collided head-on with a court ruling today. The trial proceeded.

The point at issue was made ground for exception and may come up again.

Attorney Darrow, chief of counsel for James B. McNamara, on trial for the murder of Charles J. Haggerty, a machinist, killed in The Los Angeles Times explosion, brought on the clash by the avowed purpose of obtaining a ruling on the time which the court will take to decide whether a challenge directed against a talesman shall be allowed. For the purpose of record, Darrow refused to proceed until ordered to do so by the court.

This was the third day that A. C. Winter, a challenge talesman, sat in the box and the court had said he would rule on Winter's case today if the defense desired. The point was passed and late in the day Walter L. Frampton, a farmer, was challenged because he said he believed both James B. McNamara and his brother John J. were guilty of murder.

The court deferred ruling on Frampton, who on examination by the state, made several apparently contradictory statements and Darrow stopped the trial. It was the contention of counsel for the defense that they do not know how to save up their peremptory challenges, nor when to take chances on accepting talesmen as to cause unless they know the exact status of every man in the box.

"I am going to ask to have the challenge passed on now. I want the ruling of the court," said Mr. Darrow, when the court had announced that he would examine the record in the Frampton case.

"Now, Mr. Darrow," said Judge Bordwell, "there is no occasion for a remark like that. I am going to take time to examine this record. You must proceed."

Darrow entered an objection, which was overruled and an exception, and took up the examination of Talesman T. J. Lee, which was under consideration when court adjourned.

LINDSEY MAY COMPLETE CONFEDERATE ROSTER WORK

The work of completing the confederate roster, which was begun by the late Governor A. D. Candler and which is now being carried on by former Governor W. J. Northen, may be turned over to Pension Commissioner J. W. Lindsey by the roster commission.

At a meeting of the commission yesterday, composed of Governor Smith, Captain Lindsey and Adjutant General Obear, Captain Lindsey reported that practically all the work now to be done on the roster is to establish an alphabetical card index system of the 70,000 names of confederate soldiers now on hand.

The commission believes that this work can be completed in about two months. Captain Lindsey was appointed to investigate the probable length of time the work will require, and it was stated that he will probably be instructed to prepare the index system and wind up the work.

The federal government has possession of the records bearing the names of 50,000 soldiers of the confederacy which the state of Georgia has so far been unable to secure. Governor Smith stated Friday that as soon as he becomes United States senator he will exert every effort to secure these records, which, when added to the proposed alphabetical card index system, will make the roster complete.

FRENCHMAN PLANS BASEBALL AS FRANCE'S NATIONAL GAME

New York, October 27.—With a determination to make baseball the national game of France, Emile DuBonnet, a Paris manufacturer and sportsman, is today on his way back to Europe after witnessing most of the world's series games. DuBonnet sailed on the Condor III. in the balloon race for the Bennett cup. With the beginning of the baseball championship series he became an enthusiastic fan. He plans to introduce baseball into France, and hopes, he says, to be able to arrange a French-American series within a few years.

FULTON TO HAVE MANY WARDENS

J. W. McCord Has Already Appointed Four Deputy Wardens.

Fulton county is to have all the deputy game wardens that may be necessary to enforce the new game law which became effective on September 1.

J. W. McCord, who was appointed warden for Fulton county by State Warden Mercer, announced yesterday that he has already appointed four deputy wardens for this county, has two other applicants under consideration and is casting about for others who may be available and who will make good men.

"I expect to have eight or ten deputies for this county," said Mr. McCord, "and if I find more than that number are necessary they will be appointed. It has never been my intention not to appoint any deputies for Fulton and I have been taking my time about making the appointments in order to get men who will see that the law is enforced."

Mr. McCord expects commissions from Warden Mercer in a few days for the four men who have already been appointed and their names will be given out as soon as the commissions are received. The other deputies will be commissioned just as soon as they are appointed.

Warden McCord has issued thirty-four licenses up to date, nine of which are county licenses and twenty-four state licenses.

BAN WILL PROBE TICKET SCANDAL

New York, October 27.—Ban B. Johnson, president of the American League, is still anxious for an official probing of the ticket scandal in connection with the world's championship games here.

He declares that he has evidence in his possession that will throw light on the muddle, and is willing to tell the name of an individual who helped speculators to get hold of many tickets. In his opinion John T. Brush, president of the New York baseball club, has been kept in ignorance of the facts.

"Brush had no part in the sale of tickets to scalpers," said Johnson. "He knew nothing about the way matters were handled by a certain person who for the present shall remain unknown.

"I promise you to probe the ticket scandal to the bottom, provided August Herrmann and Thomas J. Lynch, the other members of the commission will sanction an official investigation."

Friends of Johnson say that private detectives employed by him have discovered proof that the more prominent ticket speculators secured 9,000 grandstand seats at $1 advance over the regular price. So far Herrmann has pooh-poohed the matter with the statement that it is greatly exaggerated, while Lynch has maintained a discreet silence.

STRIKE-BREAKERS SHOT AT FULTON, KENTUCKY

Paducah, Ky., October 27.—Two Illinois Central railroad strike-breakers, among several who were wounded when fired on late last night at Fulton, Ky., were brought here today and placed in a hospital.

They are W. K. Lufkins, of North Wales, Pa., and F. P. Wise, of Philadelphia.

Several other strike-breakers were slightly injured. The men were fired on while working in the railroad yards.

McComb City, Miss., October 27.—The practical military officials in command of the 400 or more soldiers guarding the Illinois Central shops here since trouble with strike sympathizers developed several weeks ago, have taken advantage of their stay to instruct the guardsmen. Besides the cross-county hikes several times a week, extended order maneuvers and tent drills, sub-caliber rifles have been ordered, and the soldiers will take a turn at target practice. The strike situation remains unchanged. The railroad officials and strikers appear equally optimistic over the outcome of the struggle. The strikers are orderly.

OATH IS TAKEN BY WARNER HILL

Former Railroad Commissioner Becomes Member of the Supreme Court.

It is now Mr. Justice H. Warner Hill, of the Georgia supreme court.

Judge Hill took the oath of office in the private office of Governor Hoke Smith yesterday at noon, in the presence of the members of the railroad commission, of which he was a member when appointed by the governor to succeed Judge Horace M. Holden. The oath was administered by the governor.

Judge Hill will take his seat on the bench Monday.

Paul Trammell, of Dolton, who was appointed by Governor Smith to succeed Judge Hill on the commission, will take the oath of office Monday morning.

The commission will meet at 12 o'clock Monday to reorganize and to elect a chairman to succeed former Chairman Hill. It is generally believed that Commissioner Murphy Candler will be elected to this position.

TAFT LOOKS FRESH AFTER LONG JAUNT

Milwaukee, Wis., October 27.—With his departure from Milwaukee for Chicago today, President Taft practically brought to an end the last leg of his swing around the circle, as it was originally planned.

Tomorrow the president will start in on a strenuous three-day program at Chicago, and on Tuesday he will wind up the original trip at Pittsburg, the engagements that he has made following that being quite distinct from those of the present journey.

In the forty-one days that Mr. Taft has been on the road, he has made, according to the official stenographers, more than 250 speeches, and has discussed all sorts of subjects. Most of the speeches have been short, not more than 300 or 400 words in length each, but there have been more than a score of addresses that have reached a length of 2,500 or 3,000 words.

The tariff, the vetoes of the woolen, farmers' free list and cotton bills, the tariff board and its composition, the relation of government to business, reciprocity—in the early stages of the trip—peace and arbitration, have been the main topics that the president has used, but on many occasions he has turned to farming, to the operations of the government departments, conservation, the public domain and other questions in the public eye. Mr. Taft has spoken to all sorts of crowds. Some of them have run over the 100,000-mark; others have been closer to 100. Through it all the president has kept in fine voice, and only once or twice has it become even husky.

Today Mr. Taft looks almost as fresh as when he stepped out on the platform of the Ideal to say goodby to Boston, September 15. With five days' rest at Hot Springs, Va., ahead of him, he is expected to get back to the capital in practically as fit condition as when he started on his trip.

The president's day in Milwaukee included luncheon with 1,500 employees and employers of Milwaukee factories and an address.

STEEL STOCKS SLIDE DOWNWARD

Fell Eight and Half Points During the Session.

Owners of United States Steel Stock in All Parts of the Country Threw Their Holdings on the Market—Large Blocks at Times.

New York, October 27.—United States Steel common fell 8½ points to 50 on the stock exchange today. That movement was the most striknig effect upon the securities market of the government's dissolution suit against the United States Steel Corporation. Owners of United States Steel securities in all parts of the country and in foreign lands, alarmed at the suit, threw their holdings upon the market and trading in securities ran to enormous proportions. During the day 690,000 shares of United States Steel were sold. The general list developed pronounced weakness on account of this movement, but there was no demoralization except in the market for United States Steel itself.

Violent as were the fluctuations, the effect of the suit upon the market undoubtedly was lessened greatly by the wholesale liquidation of steel stocks which culminated in the upheaval of last month. The market, as a whole, was less turbulent than during the height of last month's disturbance, which was prompted by the fear that such a suit as has now been filed would be brought, or that the Steel Corporation would deem it wise to avoid such action by voluntarily dissolving. The drop in the price of United States Steel itself, however, was greater than on any other day of the previous decline and its low price of 50 today was 1⅜ below the bottom of the September drop. Following last month's descent the price climbed to 62⅝ and today's low figure represented a loss of 10 points from yesterday's high.

London prices gave notice, before the market opened here, of what was to be expected. Speculation abroad had been influenced by heavy selling orders placed there overnight by New York. The rush to sell was so great that the market was thrown into confusion and sales at prices ranging all the way from 55 to 53½ were made at the same time. The opening was a block of 28,000 at these figures.

Prices of all the standard issues gave way. Before the end of the frist hour the decline was checked on strong support, but the market soon became weak again and prices fell lower than before. Throughout the morning prices rose and fell in a feverish manner. Shortly after noon United States Steel touched 50, the lowest price recorded since 1909. Declines elsewhere among the active issues ranged from 2 to 5 points. Both the standard railroad stocks and the industrials suffered.

Determined efforts were made to prevent United States Steel from breaking through 50. They were successful, and in the early afternoon the market rose slowly. Trading became much quieter and by the close substantial recoveries had been made. United States Steel ended the day at 52⅛, a net loss of 6⅜. The preferred stock closed at 103¾, a net loss of 5 points. The 5 per cent sinking fund bonds closed at 100¾, a loss of 1½, after having sold at 100½.

In spite of today's events in the stock market, it is doubtful whether the government's action has greatly increased the unrest which has been prevalent in Wall street for some time. It has been generally expected that the suit would be brought sooner or later and the feeling most generally expressed today was one of relief that the uncertainty on this score was ended. The government's statement in its petition that the Steel Coroporation's ability to earn dividends was a result of "a fictitious basis resting on unlawful competition" perhaps served to accentuate alarm on the part of security holders in general. In Wall street, however, the value behind the various issues of United States Steel securities has been well known in a general way. It was pointed out, moreover, that during the period of its existence the corporation has been expending an average of about $40,000,000 a year for improvements. In fact, it is estimated that nearly $450,000,000 has been expended in this manner, which acts as a substantial offset to the $600,000,000 of inflated value alleged by the government.

Chairman Gary's statement, issued after the close of the market, was essentially a reiteration of views known to have been held by the heads of the corporation.

Wall street gave its undivided attention today to the affairs of the Steel Corporation and even the favorable September reports of the Harriman roads received little attention. These reports showed that these roads had effectually reduced their operating expenses. Although both Union Pacific and Southern Pacific reported heavy decreases in gross returns, both roads reduced expenses substantially and net earnings were larger.

Extreme weakness was manifested by many of the speculative bonds. Blocks of from $100,000 to $300,000 of American Tobacco 4s were sold, driving them down 1⅛ to 90 1-4, with a rally to 91. The 6s were weakened to about the same extent and remained heavy. Losses in other issues reached a point or more in many cases. Total sales, par value, $5,370,000. United State bonds were unchanged on call.

COTTON HIGHER 6 TO 11 POINTS

Market Very Steady at Close on Covering of Shorts and Buying for Reaction.

New York, October 27.—Prospects for rain or snow and freezing temperatures in the western belt, rains in the eastern and central belts, and a possibility that the tropical storm would reach the southern coast did not prevent rather aggressive selling in the local cotton market at times today, but offerings were very well absorbed, and, while fluctuations were more or less irregular, the close was very steady at a net advance of 6@11 points, on covering of shorts and buying for a reaction.

The opening was firm at an advance of 9@13 points, in response to higher cables than due, and an unfavorable view of the weather situation. An accumulation of overnight selling orders, which were believed to have been attracted by the estimate of a prominent local expert placing this year's crop at 14,577,000 bales, the selling influence of the government action against the Steel Corporation, and the easier return in the market here late yesterday, sent prices back to about the closing figures of last night right after the call, but around 9.03 for January the market met the same resistance it has shown for the past two weeks around that level. This buying probably included covering by old shorts and the operations of the reactionists, while the western belt forecast for wintry conditions during the next twenty-four hours stimulated a demand from some of the more recent sellers. Prices worked up 6 or 7 points from the lowest in consequence, but on the advance spot houses were sellers and during the middle of the afternoon the market again eased off, under a renewal of local pressure.

Possibly reports from spot sources in the gulf states that the demand to fill October spot engagements had been satisfied, and that the basis was the easiest so far for the season, encouraged the selling, but advices from other sections reported steady spots and the market improved in the late trading on bull support and continued covering.

Week-end figures proved less bearish than expected as the into-sight ran considerably under early estimates, and spinners' takings were heavier with a relatively small increase in the world's visible supply. Private cables from Bombay say the Indian crop is generally estimated at 3,500,000 bales, of 400 pounds, against 4,682,000 last year.

Receipts, 94,276 bales, against 71,527 last week and 58,467 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans, 14,067 bales, against 4,987 last year, and at Houston 21,822 bales, against 14,414 last year.

Cotton, spot, closed dull, 10 points higher; middling uplands, 9.50; do. gulf, 9.75. Sales, 400 bales.

Sea Island Cotton.

Charleston, S. C., Otcober 27.—Sea island: Receipts, 232 bags; exports, none; sales, 42 bags; stock, 1,980 bags. Market quiet. Quotations omitted.

Savannah, Ga., October 27.—Sea islands: Fancy Florida, 21@21½; fancy Georgia, 21; extra choice Florida and Georgia, 20; choice, 19; extra fine, 18; fine, 17; common, 15; sales, 4,000. Receipts, 4,178; shipments, 4,620; stocks, 8,741.

Dry Goods.

New York, October 27.—The cotton goods markets are quiet, and buyers are timid about long future prices. Spot trading continues steady. Local wool markets are somewhat easier, but domestic grades are firm. Yarns are quiet and steady.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL THE MARKETS

WHEAT DROPPED OVER TWO CENTS

Scare Caused by Demoralized Condition of Stocks—Corn Also Off.

Chicago, October 27.—Almost panic conditions took a clutch today on the wheat market. Demoralized stock dealings had the most to do with the scare, but there was also talk that the government would investigate the alleged manipulation of grain. Closing prices were weak at a decline of 1¾ to 2⅜@2½, compared with 24 hours before. Other staples fell, too, but not nearly so much as wheat. Corn, ½@⅝ to ⅝; oats, ⅜@½, and hog products 5 to 15@17½.

Fear as to the unsettling effect of court action against the United States Steel Corporation made holders of wheat nervous from the start. Prices crumbled gradually at first, but later in the day pyramids built during the advance last week came tumbing down on stop-loss orders to sell. It was in vain. Bull leaders pointed out that the government would have no case against human digestive plants, and that 90,000,000 people would continue to need just such daily bread. Attention in the pit could not be shaken away from the fact that a huge amount of local ante-eastern wheat was being urgently pressed for sale, and that in a relative sense buying had practically vanished. A bear raid decidedly increased the excitement. On top of all the other woes for the bulls, disquieting rumors flew about that supposed manipulators of wheat, as well as steel, might expect soon to be sacked by the stern hand of Uncle Sam. As a direct outcome, the market closed at almost the lowest point of the session. Extreme limits touched by December were $1.00½ and 98⅛@98¼, with last sales 98¼, a net loss of 2⅜@2½.

Cold weather, as well as the demoralized security market, and the wheat decline, put a weight on corn. Offers of both old and new crop supplies from the country were on the inrcease. December varied from 63¼@63⅜ to 63⅞, and closed steady, ⅝ down at 63½@63⅝. Cash grades were in slow demand. No. 2 yellow was quoted at 74¼@74½.

Covering by oatts shorts hleped partly to overcome the influence of the break in other commodities. Quite a number of tired longs, however, were unloading. December ranged between 47½@47, with the close 47, a fall of ½c from last night.

In the face of weakness in grain and Wall street, provisions found little support. At the last gong pork was down 10@17½c; lard 7½ to 12½@15, and ribs 5 to 12½.

London Stock Market.

London, October 27.—Dealers in the American market assembled earlier than usual this morning owing to the action of the United States government in bringing suit for the dissolution of the United States Steel Corporation and all constituent or subsidiary companies. Steel shares opened nominally at 59, but soon fell to 57 and then to 54½, or 5⅜ points below parity. The amount of stock changing hands, however, was small compared with the big decline and there was not much excitement. Erratic movements were followed by bear covering that lifted the quotation to 56, at which figure buyers were found.

At 11 o'clock, however, the market was very unsettled, and continental advices were eagerly awaited. No dealings in American rails had yet occurred. Holders here were rather frightened at the government's action, but the principal offerings appear to have been cabled over night from Wall street.

American rails later dropped from ½ to 1½ in sympathy with the steel stocks, but the market hardened fractionally around noon, when in the absence of further selling, steel was quoted at 56¼, or 1¾ above the lowest.

In the afternoon Wall street offerings caused another setback and steel common broke 3½, making the net loss for the day 8⅜ points. The general list followed with losses ranging from ½ to 2 points, and the market closed flat. Copper shares lost 1⅜ in sympathy with the weakness in Rio Tintos.

Coffee.

New York, October 27.—The market for coffee futuers opened quiet at unchanged prices to a decline of 5 points under a renewal of yesterday's selling movement, which evidently was encouraged by the readiness with which European markets met the local decline of Thursday and reports that some of the firm offers from Brazil were a shade lower. Active months sold about 18 to 23 points net lower during the middle of the day, but offerings were not heavy on the decline and the market later firmed up sharply on covering of shorts, bull support and private cables from Brazil reporting a very firm primary spot market, as a result of shorts covering for nearby shipments. The close was steady, net 1 point higher to 7 points lower. Sales, 103,250 bags.

Havre was 1½ to 1¾ franc lower. Hamburg was to ½ pfennig lower. Rio, 50 reis lower at 9$475; Santos fours, 150 reis lower at 9$100; sevens, 100 reis lower at 8$500.

ADVERTISING OPPORTUNITY. ADVERTISING OPPORTUNITY.

A FEW WORDS TO THE REAL ESTATE AGENT.

The greatest opportunity offered this year for the sale of Georgia lands to the home-seekers will be at the land show at Chicago this fall. Thousands of home-seekers will visit this show, coming from all parts of the West and Northwest. Already more interest is manifested this year than at any time in the history of this organization. It is predicted that more than half a million home-seekers will attend that show to find out where to go to better their condition in life.

The South has never made plain, in a systematic way, to the home-seekers, the opportunities here, but the educative work that has been going on has awakened the home-seeker of the West and Northwest, and their attention is centered now on Georgia and the Southeast. The tide of immigration to Georgia has already begun.

Now, a suggestion to the Real Estate Agents: List every acre of farm land you can, also large acreages and city property, then write a plain advertisement, send to us to publish in The Constitution's Home-Seekers' Edition, to be issued on "Georgia Advertising Day," November 30th. This Edition of The Constitution will be unusually interesting, and we will print several thousand extra copies to be distributed to the home-seekers at The Chicago Land Show.

There never was such a rare opportunity for the Real Estate Agents of Georgia to sell land as is here offered. The great trend of home-seekers is to the South because all the free lands of the Government have practically been taken. No other State in the Union offers as cheap and as productive land as can be found in Georgia.

People have already heard of the fertile soil, the hospitable climate, and the healthful condition in Georgia; now all that the live real estate agent has to do is to let the home-seeker know where the most desirable lands can be had, prices, terms, etc., and sales can be easily accomplished.

The cost of an advertisement, the size of this one, published in The Constitution's Home-Seekers' Edition on "Georgia Advertising Day," about November 30th, will be $22.40; twice the size, $44.80; three times the size, $67.20. List your land at once, write copy and get to us as soon as possible. If further information is needed, advise us. We will be glad to give you any information desired.

THE CONSTITUTION,
ATLANTA, GA.

ADVERTISING TALKS.

ONLY EXPENDITURE THAT GAVE HIM TANGIBLE RETURNS.

He expressed the opinion that in the 1912 campaign both parties would spend large sums of money in NEWSPAPER AND MAGAZINE ADVERTISING, EDUCATING THE PEOPLE OF THE COUNTRY as to the respective claims of their candidates, and he said that if he had anything to do with it HE WOULD EXPEND AT LEAST HALF OF THE MONEY RECEIVED IN THIS KIND OF ADVERTISING.

I was particularly glad to hear this from Mr. Mack, because ADVERTISING IS REAL NEWS—and the advertising pages are EDUCATIONAL.

The people of the country are SUFFICIENTLY INTELLIGENT TO DRAW THER OWN CONCLUSIONS without having their opinions molded by editorial expressions, and WHAT THEY WANT more than anything else IS THE NEWS ABOUT CANDIDATES and WHAT THEY STAND FOR. Then they will draw their own conclusions.

IT IS A WASTE OF penditure was about THE MONEY to have parades, banquets, brass bands, cart-tail orators and a few other things that now absorb all of the money raised for campaign purposes.

If political managers of the future will put before the readers of newspapers and magazines (particularly newspapers), in strong, well-written advertisements, the real facts about their candidates and their parties, they will find it the best expenditure of money they ever made.

A supply of sanitary paper drinking cups has bee norderd for th isthmus and these will be placed in the coaches of the Panama railroad substituting the public glass now in use, as soon as they are received. Arrangements have also been made for individual drinking cups for the hospital cars.

TWO MASKED MEN HOLD UP PORTERS

Held up, chased, and shot at, three negro porters working at the Eagle's Club this morning at 1 o'clock telephoned to the police station that two masked men had gone through their pockets at the corner of Piedmont avenue and Ellis street.

According to the story told by the negroes, Ed Jones, Howard Maxwell and John Oglesby, they had started home when the two men approached them and held them up at the point of a gun. The highwaymen ordered the three to turn their backs, after which their pockets were searched, though no booty was obtained.

The highwaymen then ordered them to run, firing several shots in their direction. The negroes ran. The police are now looking for the highwaymen.

ENFRANCHISED WOMEN FORM ORGANIZATION

National Federation of Voting Women Formed at Recent Suffrage Convention.

Louisville, Ky., October 27.—Plans for the organization of the National Federation of Voting Women were laid by delegates who attended the recent convention of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, and who remained in Kentucky until last night for a trip to Mammoth cave. Mrs. George A. Smith, president of the woman's suffrage organization in Washington, made the announcement last night, when she, with others in the party, returned to the city.

"The federation," said Mrs. Smith, "will be formed by the enfranchised women of Washington, California, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah and Colorado, the states in which they have the ballot. I have arranged to begin active organization work as soon as I return to my home in Seattle. It is our plan to use this federation among other things in a concerted action to aid the women of Oregon in a campaign for suffrage they will soon enter. When Oregon is added to the list, the federation will turn its attention to the states eastward."

Mrs. Smith will go to Buffalo, Washington and Detroit, where she is to speak to civic organizations before she returns west.

Seven Sisters Stricken.

Huntsville, Ala., October 27.—Miller M. Cown, of Meridianville, brought seven of his daughters to the hospital yesterday to be treated for typhoid fever. The girls' mother died with the disease several weeks ago, and the seven daughters were stricken. The father and one daughter of the family are the only ones to escape the malady The fever is in epidemic form in several small towns near Huntsville.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES, DAY BY DAY

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

Colonial Hills, the new subdivision, which is being improved and put on the market by S. E. Davidson, between Oakland City and East Point, has already begun to be greatly in demand, in spite of its, at present, but semi-developed condition. Situated in a highly-developed and easily accessible section, it practically sells itself. When all improvements have been completed in this new subdivision, not only will this section of newly-developed property be greatly in demand, but the value of the surrounding realty will be much enhanced, for Colonial Hills will have all the advantages of the heart of Atlanta and many more improvements than those towns a few miles further south. Mr. Davidson has made the following sales in Colonial Hills during the latter part of this week alone:

To T. E. Price, $900; to Mrs. Alice Gallaher, $850; to J. H. Kinman, $1,000; to O. D. Bailey, $500; to H. J. Burke, $600; to T. H. Smith, $1,000; to C. F. Graham, $1,000; to J. R. Harwell, $1,000, and to W. H. Brewer, $600.

Real Estate Sales.

In spite of the inclement weather, in which no real estate man could hope to do any great amount of business, on Friday a large number of small sales were announced, and it was said by real estate men that the closing of a number of others, some of them larger, was only prevented by the weather. At any rate, it shows a decidedly good real estate market in Atlanta. Follow the sales:

PARALYTICS SHOW AGILITY WHEN CHASED BY MONKEY

Escape of Baboon Works Miraculous Cure on Two Lame Men.

Louisville, Tenn., October 27.—William Shuckman and Oscar Ruhkamp, one of whom yesterday was a paralytic and the other a veteran of the civil war, compelled for years to make his way on crutches, today are walking like other men, all because a monkey got out of his cage.

According to the owner of the saloon and bowling alley in which the monkey, said to be half baboon and half ourang-outang, is kept as a permanent exhibit, they suddenly found their strength and agility when the creature made for them, and ran as fast as any of the rest of the men in the place. The animal is 5 feet tall, and was returned to his cage only after a severe clubbing. The recovery of the two men is attributed to the nervous shock resulting from their fright.

WHISKY FIGHT WARMS UP; HUB TALLEY IN TOILS AGAIN

Rub's in again!

This news rapidly went around last night at police station, when "H. W. Talley" was written on the docket for the seventeenth time this year, already surpassing his 1910 record, which is the record of arrests for any one prisoner by one time.

During the past two years "Hub" has been in the Tower about ten times. Liquor charges have oftenest been the causes of his arrest, although there was a time when he was held for shooting three men in one week.

Arrested at the same time as Talley was W. B. Crisp. The case against Crisp makes the tenth this year against him.

Rivalry between the two largest "tiger" factions in the city, alleged to be led by Dan Shaw and by Hub Talley, is said to have been responsible for last night's arrests.

Encroachment on each other's territory is regarded as the cause of the rivalry, which finally led, last week, it is rumored, to the Shaw crowd being "turned up" by members of the Talley gang. Arrests and convictions in police court followed. Then, last night, the tables were turned, and three cases were docketed against Talley, two of which were for violating the traveling blind tiger ordinance, the third for keeping whisky on hand for the purpose of sale, and one case of keeping whisky on hand was docketed against Crisp.

Evidence was secured in the shape of three barrels and six cases of liquor, said to have been sold by the defendants and seized from drays, and also from storage places by detectives. Webb and Bullard are the arresting officers.

PRIZES ARE AWARDED AT BEN HILL FAIR

The Exhibition Is Proving a Success in Every Respect.

Fitzgerald, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—The Ben Hill county fair is proving a success beyond the most sanguine expectations of its promotors. The agricultural exhibits are the equal of any seen at the recent Tifton or Macon fairs. The individual farm exhibit of Hon. Wright Paulk is particularly fine, containing all the different products that can be raised in Ben Hill county. The paintings, embroidery and other needlework completely fill one large room. The china painting by Miss Lobingier and Mrs. F. G. Clark are exceptionally fine.

There is a good display of domestic animals, horses, mules, cattle and hogs, while the poultry exhibit is far superior to that of Tifton, and equal to that at Macon, at least in quality. In numbers, there were 520 different birds in the show. Most of the premiums were captured by people of this county.

Dr. Borroughs, of Brunswick, is here with his collection of relics and curios, and will lecture to the school children on Saturday.

Wednesday being a rainy day, the program of amusements was changed, and on Thursday was held the farmers' parade, consisting of farm wagons loaded with the products of the farm, principally cotton, at 1 o'clock; horse racing at 2:30, and the Knights' tournament at 3:30 o'clock. In the tournament, George Boney won first prize, $30, with 8 points; Homer Adams, second, $20, with 7 points. Third and fourth places were tied, but were won on second trial by B. M. Reed, third, $10, and T. Livingstone, fourth, $5.

Hester's World's Visible Supply

New Orleans, October 27.—Secretary Hester's statement of the world's visible supply of cotton, made up from special cable and telegraphic advices, compares the figures of this week with last week, last year and the year before. The total visible is 3,356,313, against 3,133,853 last week, 3,020,818 last year and 3,716,383 year before last. WEEK'S TRADE REVIEWED.

What Commercial Agencies Say About Business.

New York, October 27.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say that trade displays little change, with perhaps a slightly greater tendency toward irregularity. Yet the consensus of reports from many markets, barring some at the south, indicate that retail trade has been materially helped by cooler weather. In larger lines reports are fair, though the low condition of retailers' stocks, coupled with the fact that final distribution is now likely to increase, probably will eventuate in much smaller lot buying, as well as in the reinstatement of orders heretofore cancelled by timid buyers. But it is generally conceded that trade, wholesale, jobbing and retails, tends to reflect improvement over this time last year. Trade in cotton goods is not being helped by the instability of prices and buyers, domestic and foreign, seem to prefer to wait until this situation becomes more settled, even though stocks are light. In the industries the chief events of the week were the several actions centering in the United States Steel Coropration. But so far as actual buying of steel and iron goes the week has developed very little. Prices continue to tend downward and some buyers, seeing that quotations are very low, are attempting to purchase for longer periods. Pig iron is weaker.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending October 26 were 231, against 258 last week, 220 in the like week of 1910, 217 in 1909, 241 in 1908 and 223 in 1907. Business failures in Canada for the week terminating with Thursday number 31, which contrasts with 24 for last week and 30 in the like week of last year.

Wheat, including flour, exports from the United States and Canada for the week ending October 26 aggregate 3,780,016 bushels, against 2,541,604 last week and 3,427,169 this week last year. For the 17 weeks ending October 26 exports are 50,369,299 bushels, against 31,428,346 in the corresponding period last year.

Corn exports for the week are 526,110 bushels, against 631,612 last week and 507,090 in 1910. For the 17 weeks ending October 26, corn exports are 10,032,305 bushels, against 6,059,492 last year.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, October 27.—Spot cotton steady, unchanged; middling, 9½; sales on the spot, 256 bales; to arrive, 1,925; low ordinary, 6 1-16, nominal; ordinary, 6⅞, nominal; good ordinary, 8 5-16; strict good ordinary, 8 11-16; low middling, 9; strict low middling, 9¼; middling, 9½; strict middling, 9⅝; good middling, 9¾; strict good middling, 9 15-16; middling fair, 10¼; middling fair to fair, 10⅝; fair, 11, nominal; receipts, 14,067; stock, 82,769.

Cotton futures opened steady at an advance of 8 to 12 points, on good cables and signs of colder weather for the cotton belt. The weather map was cloudy with rain in the eastern half and moderate temperatures nearly everywhere, but snow was reported at Amarillo, Texas, and the forecast promised much colder weather, with snow and freezing in the northern sections of the western half of the cotton region. In addition, the weather bureau issued storm warnings for the Louisiana coast, on account of the tropical hurricane which has been central for a day or two near the end of Florida. All this stimulated buying in the face of the rumored crop estimate of 15,600,000 bales by a prominent crop expert and disquieting news from the stock markets. In the early trading, prices were 10 to 13 points up. Scalping longs took profits heavily and shorts increased their lines with the result that at the end of the first half hour of business prices were only 3 points over yesterday's close on the more active months.

Reports from the spot market that local offerings of actual cotton were very light and that shippers were finding extreme difficulty in filling their requirements for the end of the month gave the market a good tone from the middle of the morning on and caused a small rise again. Bullish traders claimed that the spot demand was extending over to cover shipment due to clear in November. News from the interior was that farmers were less inclined to sell and in many instances were hauling cotton back home from the gins. At noon prices were 7 to 12 points over yesterday's close.

In the afternoon session, the market was quiet and prices barely moved. The week-end statistics about balanced as both the into-sight and the out-of-sight broke all records.

At 2 o'clock prices were 7 to 10 points over yesterday's close.

The market closed steady at a net advance of 10 to 11 points.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, October 27.—Another cold wave has apeared in the Rocky mountains, which the government predicts will extend over Oklahoma and Arkansas. The storm south of Florida is also marked upon the weather map. These two factors caused Liverpool to quickly recover its decline and gave this market strength all day, as the traders think Europe will certainly pay attention to this cold wave and send buying orders tomorrow to all of the markets. Of course a killing frost now would not have the same effect on the out turn of the crop, as it would if it had come a fortnight ago, but nevertheless it is expected to at least interest the spinners. The current news of the day was not of a character to induce investment buying.

Liverpool should advance 3 to 4 points tomorrow.

COTTON THE PAST WEEK; REVIEW OF THE MARKET

New York, October 27.—Cotton during the week, has shown at times until expected strength for several reasons. First, there have been frost scares, which striking a market rendered sensitive by the presence of a large short interest, have caused sharp, if temporary, upturns in prices. Also some of the spinners, as prices have approached 9 cents, showed more disposition to the take hold. The exports have been large. Spot markets at times have shown a rather more belligerent tone, and the south is beginning to hold back cotton to a sufficient extent to excite comment here. Waldorf Astoria shorts have, at times, covered freely. The greater part of the short purchases on Wednesday morning of some 150,000 bales was put down to the Woldorf clique.

Yarns have been in somewhat better demand. The weekly reports of the mercantile agencies speak of a quickened movement in the dry goods trade. It is believed that in some quarters the crop is being overestimated and the world's consumption underestimated. It is also believed that spinnners' takings this year ar not unlikely to run considerably ahead of the actual consumption, owing to the relatively low prices. Bears, however, are talking of an ultimate decline to much lower levels on the idea that the crop is 15,000,000 bales or more, and that the consumption and the spinners' takings will be considerably less than this figurt in spite of low prices. They are encouraged in this view by the high record ginning up to October 18, as revealed by the census bureau's report on October 25, putting it at 7,740,000 bales or about 2,300,000 more than for the same time last year, and roughly 1,400,000 more than the previous high record some years ago. Moreover, Manchester and Liverpool have been noticeably depressed by the growing gravity of the rebellion in China and the monetary crisis in Shanghai. Southern hedge selling has continued on an important scale. Some important interests, however, in Wall street and the south, notably in New Orleans, are identified with the bull side, and there is a growing conviction that the receipts do not warrant the extreme high crop guesses, while ginning figures are not universally accepted at a sure indication of the size of the crop. At the close cold weather at the south and covering of shorts caused a rally.

Review of Sugar Market.

New York, October 27.—The sugar market developed the anticipated easier trend this week, both in raws and refined. A resale of Brazil crystals brought down the price almost one-quarter cent, though the spot quotation has been nominal. Refiners generally show no interest in offerings of new Cubas for January shipment at the 4.86 cent, duty paid basis, though this is a full cent under the recent prevailing quotation for spot sugar. Apparently they hope for a further break in Europe, which has been heavy of late, despite bullish crop figures.

Louisiana sugar is now being made and will soon actively swell receipts here, while domestic beet refined, also, tends to alleviate the situation. In fact, the latter sugar is responsible for the semi-demoralized tone in refined.

Business is practicaly at a standstill and further reductions are looked for, now that the large interests have caught up in deliveries without, however, stimulating the demand. Consumption has undoubtedly been curtailed by high prices.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, October 27.—Cotton seed oil was lower, particularly October, which sold 26 points off from Thursday under liquidating and lack of demand for real oil. Other months declined early in sympathy with lard, but showed a steadier tendency toward the close on unfavorable weather south. Spot closed 50 points lower.

MINISTER IS FINED FOR ROW IN CHURCH

Cedartown, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Quite an unusual case was tried in the October term of Polk city court today. Rev. G. A. Shaw, a Baptist minister, was charged with disturbing public worship.

In June, of this year, at Pine Bower Baptist church, near the Polk and Bartow line, the Rev. Shaw and J. A. Baker, a member of the church at that place, got into an animated discussion about an announcement that the Rev. Shaw made relative to his preaching at that place. They began discussing the matter in the church, and it grew so warm that they went outside, where a personal fight ensued. Baker plead guilty some time ago, but the preacher filed a plea of not guilty. The case came up for trial, and he was convicted of the charge of disturbing public worship, and was heavily fined.

A PARK STREET LOT

"THERE IS SMALL CHOICE BETWEEN ONLY ONE"—Adair's Ideas.

Building lots in the central portion of West End are awfully scarce; in fact, they are about all gone. The building lots that used to be there now have fine houses on top of them.

Only one lot is left on Park St. in the very desirable block between Lee and Ashby streets. The price runs a little higher than they used to sell for, but it is 64x190 and a perfect building site. Price, $3,150.

BROWN OPPOSES LIQUOR MEDDLING

as given out yesterday is as follows:

"October 27, 1911.

"To the People of Georgia:

"The state executive committee of the democratic party has refused to permit the white citizens of this state to vote upon the alternative of local option or state prohibition in the coming primary.

"This action can only be construed to mean that the state executive committee holds that the liquor question is not properly an issue in the present campaign. Since attempts had been made by others to lug it in, I asked that this most important matter be submitted to the primary, in which white voters alone will participate.

"The other two candidates for governor have publicly expressed the conviction that the question of local option or prohibition is one to be settled by the people alone. It is to be regretted that the white voters have been denied this right, at this time, by those who are in charge of their party affairs. I feel sure that this regret will be shared by a great majority of the white people, irrespective of their individual preferences on this question.

"While I have uniformly voted the prohibition ticket, yet, feeling as strongly as I do that the people have the inherent right to determine their policy upon this question, so intimately affecting every household, I declare that, in the event of my election, I shall not favor any legislation upon this subject unless it carries with it an opportunity for approval or disapproval by the people at the ballot box. JOSEPH M. BROWN."

local affair that will be confined to a few provinces.

In view of the close relations between Russia and China, there is an inclination to believe that this is true.

Ambassador Guild refers to a statement recently made by Professor Otto Franke, of Hamburg, whom he declares to be a recognized authority on Oriental matters. Professor Franke gave it as his opinion that the present struggle is simply an outcrop of racial antipathies of the Mongolians, and does not in any way bear an appearance of a movement for reform.

It is said that the Russian government is so well satisfied with the situation that no warships will be sent to Chinese waters in addition to the single gunboat now there.

Rebel Proclaim Himself President.

Pekin, October 27.—General Li Yuen Heng, leader of the rebel forces, has informed the foreign consuls at Hankow that he has been proclaimed "president of the Republic of China."

The foreign ministers here have exchanged communications with Li upon several subjects. They objected to his announcement that vessels carrying contraband would be subject to confiscation, and also to his proposal to administer the customs revenues at the port of the Yang-tse-Kiang and other cities when controlled by the revolutionists. The latter objection was based on the fact that the revenues are pledged as security for foreign loans, and should be turned over to the British inspector general of customs in China.

about 13, while cars costing under $1,000 will scarcely have to make more than 11 miles average.

Take a car costing, say, $2,000, in class B. Its running time from Atlanta to Americus, 149.1 miles, would be about 9 hours and 20 minutes. Whatever portion of the lunch hour it might use for running, could be added to that, without penalization. If it should use for running forty minutes of the lunch hour, it would have exactly ten hours to make the trip from Atlanta to Americus which is slightly less than an average of 15 miles an hour.

Entry blanks for the tour containing all rules may be had upon application to Fred Lewis, secretary, Constitution building, Atlanta, Ga.

BUILDING NEW BRIDGES FOR TOUR 'ROUND STATE

Americus, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Seventeen white convicts were put to work this morning constructing two substantial steel bridges over the streams on the Americus-Smithville highway, the route which the 'round-the-state automobile tour will go southward from the city. The completion of these bridges is assured before the tourists arrive here.

Every stream in Sumter county along the 200 miles of graded public roads will then be crossed on steel bridges or concreted culverts.

QUICK JUSTICE GIVEN TO INDIAN MURDERER

Electrocution for a Cherokee Who Brutally Killed Young Mountain Lassie.

Greensboro, N. C., October 27.—Perhaps the quickest time in which a capital case was ever disposed of in North Carolina was at Bryson City yesterday, when Ross French, a Cherokee Indian, charged with the brutal murder of little Miss Ethel Shuler, a 14-year-old lassie of the mountains, was tried, convicted and sentenced to electrocution in less than one-half day's session. November 24 was set as the date of electrocution.

On June 17, 1911, the consulate at Havre reported that common salt was being tried as a dust layer on certain streets at Havre. The municipal authorities now state that after a thorough test they feel satisfied that the system will not give satisfactory results. In the Havre experiments 29 yards of roadway was sprinkled liberally with salt and watered freely.

Coal is by far the most important mineral product of Kinshu. It is estimated that over 80 per cent of the total output of coal for Japana comes from this island, the most famous of the mines being those at Miike.
